BROOKS WARNS F.D.R. PUTS U.S. IN PERIL OF WAR

Agrees to Six Month Draft Extension.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Blaming the war policies of the Roosevelt administration for whatever peril the country faces, Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] today announced in the senate that he would vote to extend the service of draftees for six months.

Senator Brooks.

Brooks denounced the administration proposal to continue the service of draftees, National Guardsmen, and all other army personnel indefinitely or for an extension of 1½ years to make a total of 2½ years' service as provided by a compromise amendment to be offered by proponents of the legislation. The Illinois senator said he would support an amendment by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] limiting the service of draftees to a total of 18 months and the service of National Guardsmen to a total of 24 months.

Agree to Vote on Taft Plan.

By unanimous consent, the senate agreed to vote on the Taft amendment at 1 p. m. tomorrow. The senate is expected to pass the bill with not more than 30 votes against it later tomorrow afternoon.

The Taft amendment would provide for the release of about 50,000 conscripts a month, beginning next April, and their replacement by new increments of draftees. It would place an over-all limitation of 2 million on the size of the army to prevent sending a huge expeditionary force to Europe, Africa, or elsewhere.

The administration scheme would remove the existing limitation of 900,000 on the number of draftees that may be in service at one time and permit increasing the army to any size within the limitation of available funds.

Deplores Breaking Promise.

Senator Brooks reminded the senate that funds to acquire enough equipment for a force of 3 million men are provided in legislation already passed by the house and awaiting action by the senate.

Brooks urged adoption of the Taft amendment in order to keep faith with the draftees "as best we can" and because of the testimony of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, that 18 months is long enough to give the conscripts adequate training. Even a six months' extension of their service, he said, would violate the administration's promise to keep the boys in service only one year.

Spectators in the galleries applauded when Brooks warned that there will be no national unity if the country is taken into the European war against the wishes of 75 per cent of the people. The policies and acts of the administration, he said, are moving the country step by step toward participation in a shooting war.

Cites British AEF Requests.

Brooks attributed great significance to the requests of Britain's leading generals for an American expeditionary force about the time of Gen. Marshall's request, early in July, for the removal of statutory restrictions forbidding the use of citizen soldiers outside the western hemisphere and limiting the number of draftees to 900,000.

"There is not a senator on this floor," Brooks declared, "who thinks that we should have three million soldiers to defend the shores of the United States of America unless he thinks we are going to defend our shores by marching into Berlin, unless he thinks we are going to defend them on the shores and in the interior of Africa, unless he thinks we are going to send them to the four corners of the earth, and yet before this body soon will come an appropriation for critical materials for more than 3 million soldiers.

"That is why I speak today for the Taft amendment to limit the services of these men to 18 months. I do not believe we should have extended it at all except that we are in peril. Why are we in peril? We are in peril because of the progress the present administration has made toward war."

JOINT RETURNS CLAUSE KILLED FROM MEASURE

Action Cuts Revenue by 300 Millions.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—The house today knocked 300 million dollars in prospective revenue from the new tax bill and then, by a vote of 369 to 30, laid the measure in the lap of the senate, where some means must be found for making up the loss.

The gap in the revenue measure was caused by the elimination of the requirement that all married couples file joint income tax returns. This section was killed by the house in the closing moments of the day's session by a vote of 242 to 160, despite warnings that additional revenue to replace it could be raised only thru an added tax burden on persons in the lower income brackets.

As the bill goes to the senate, it provides for raising a total of 12,400 million dollars, including 9,171 millions of reënacted levies and 3,229 millions in new revenue for rearmament purposes.

With the joint returns clause included, new revenue in the measure had been expected to reach 3,529 millions. Fiscal experts had estimated that forcing husbands and wives to lump their incomes, thus raising them to the higher surtax brackets, would bring in 300 million dollars.

Stirs Storm in Congress.

The proposal for joint returns aroused a storm of opposition in congress when it was proposed by the house ways and means committee weeks ago. In order to speed the bill's passage, managers of the legislation permitted relaxation of the gag rule for the measure's consideration, to permit a separate vote on this section. Otherwise the chamber had to accept or reject the bill in its entirety.

Last Saturday, President Roosevelt took a hand in the dispute by writing to Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee, that he was opposed to the section as it stood in the bill. Mr. Roosevelt also suggested that taxes on "certain corporations" be raised by a revision of the excess profits section and that income taxes be increased thru a lowering of individual exemptions.

The committee rejected all of the President's proposals, word of its action being transmitted to the White House in a firmly worded letter over Chairman Doughton's signature.

Rebuke to President.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter was termed in the house today an unprecedented "attempt to intrude himself" on ground sacred to congress. Representative Harold Knutson [R., Minn.], a veteran of the house and a ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, said it was the first time that a chief executive, within his memory, had attempted to render unsolicited advice on pending legislation.

"You can be proud that the committee rebuked the President in his effort," Knutson told the chamber.

Today, however, the offering of an

LONDON PRESS SEES U. S., BRITISH NAVIES IN JOINT PACIFIC ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Suggestions of joint naval action by the United States and Great Britain were revived today by the British press.

The Daily Telegraph naval correspondent said that "in the event of hostilities with Japan our forces doubtless will coöperate with the United States Asiatic fleet." More formidable, however, he declared, is the United States Pacific fleet based in Hawaii.

"It is clear," he added, "that the issue of war with Japan would depend upon effective use being made of this fleet which, it is generally believed, would utilize Singapore should hostilities develop."

The Daily Telegraph stated editorially:

"The United States has a fleet in the Pacific which should be able to account for the whole Japanese navy. If it were moved from Hawaii to Singapore, thence operated with our squadrons, the Japanese fleet would find a dash southward a desperate venture."

British Major Takes Digs at U. S. Bigwigs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Pungent comment on the war attitudes of high officials of the Roosevelt administration is contained in a letter written to Capt. David Margesson, member of parliament and British secretary of war, by a major in the British army, who was here on a mission for his government in April, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] read excerpts from the letter to the senate today.

Capt. Margesson.

Senator Wheeler did not explain how he obtained a copy of the letter. He identified the writer only as a major in the British army and the addressee only as a member of parliament and cabinet officer. The salutation, however, was "My Dear David"—and there is only one "David"—Margesson—in the British cabinet.

Calls Stimson "Pro-British."

Senator Wheeler told the senate that the British major described Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as "a decent, honest pro-British man."

Of Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, Wheeler told the senate, the letter said: "Knox is passionately anxious for America to come into the war at once."

Wheeler further quoted the Briton as saying: "My own view is that if America came into the war tomorrow she would find, just as we did, that she has practically nothing with which to make war. Everything is lacking."

Wheeler said the writer described President Roosevelt as "the greatest dictator of all time."

Always Talks "Moral Issues."

Of Cordell Hull, secretary of state, the British major spoke as "a great gentleman," but said "he's always talking in terms of Europe and free trade and great moral issues."

The British major reported "a good deal of acid comment" in the United States "about the Canadian war effort." He said William J. Donovan, President Roosevelt's intelligence coördinator, stated after a visit to Canada: "There is more real war effort here than in Canada."

The letter added: "Some Americans say, 'All right, why should our boys die, when Canadians have not got conscription, and even in Australia only those who volunteer are sent abroad'."

Guest of Ambassador.

The writer alluded familiarly to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill as "Winston" and mentioned casually that he had been staying with "Edward and Dorothy," meaning Lord and Lady Halifax, the British ambassador and his wife.

Senator Wheeler, commenting on the letter in the senate, said it represents what the British really think about the United States.

Asked about the letter later, he said: "I've criticized some of the administration's policies, but I've never criticized the President as severely as some of the Englishmen who are over here asking us to give them our taxpayers' money."

British Traffic Shows Increase in Death Toll

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Six hundred eighteen Britons lost their lives in June as a result of highway accidents, the ministry of war and transport reported today. Forty-one were killed during blackout hours. In the corresponding month of last year 479 met death, 92 during the blackout hours.

SHORT WAVE SIGNALS FROM EUROPE FADE; BLAMED ON SUN SPOTS

New York, Aug. 4 (AP). — Trans-Atlantic communication by cable and short wave were reported tonight by some receiving posts to be poor or non-existent while others said reception was normal.

Press Wireless, Inc., at Bayside, N. Y., said sun spots had affected all European signals, and there had been no thru communications since last night, except for unclear intermittent flurries.

National Broadcasting company's short wave listening post at Bellmore, N. Y., reported it had had no word from London, Germany, Russia, or Rome since about 2 p. m., today. It reported, however, that Turkey was heard from shortly after 6 p. m. and that Berlin came thru weakly at 8:40.

Mackay Radio said its commercial cables were operating normally from Europe, while Radio Corporation of America said conditions were atmospherically moderate and short and long wave length contacts to all points were favorable.

Babes Thirst for Adventure; Bang! Swish!

A desire for adventure gripped two babes yesterday and they forthwith set out to do something about it. The startling results of their daring left them shaken but wiser in the ways of dispelling the humdrum of infancy. Here's what they did:

Kenny Takes a Ride.

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 4 [Special].—Kenny Keenan, 2½ years old, had a glint in his eye as he viewed his grandparents' new automobile in the driveway of their home.

1. He glanced around. No one was looking. In a twinkling he was in the car and behind the wheel. His excitement high, he turned a few gadgets on the dash. Then he stepped on the starter.

The motor roared and the car, in gear, sped forward. It brushed aside grandma as she tried to climb aboard. Into the garage it raced and smashed thru the brick wall at the back. Bricks and mortar thundered down on the car's metal top. It stopped half way thru the wall, unable to plow thru rubble piled ahead of it.

"It's a bad, bad car," Kenny dubiously observed as his grandmother, Mrs. Emmett Keenan, lifted him unscathed from the damaged car.

Pursues Elusive Marble.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 4 [Special].—Timothy Moore, 1 year old, dropped

2. his marble down the cold air shaft of the family furnace. For a moment he was grieved, then it occurred to him it would be fun to go after it.

He pulled loose the grating. His eyes brightened at what appeared to be a gleaming slide. Gingerly he climbed in and promptly scooted nine feet down and into the furnace.

Blackness enveloped him; there was too little light and too much soot. The marble forgotten, Timothy screamed lustily for help. Hearing his cries come up the air shafts, his frantic mother, Mrs. Hubert T. Moore, ran from room to room hunting him.

Finally she found him in the furnace, but she couldn't get him out. Firemen were called and in a few minutes they had torn down the furnace pipes. There sat Timothy dirty and tear stained but unhurt. He never did find the marble.

FIGHTING RAGES IN NEW REGION, RUSSIA REVEALS

Moscow disclosed early today that fighting had blazed in a new sector, at Kholm, about midway between Leningrad and Smolensk. This put the Germans 70 miles in advance of their previously reported position.

Nazi columns are fighting encircled Russian troops south of Kiev in a "battle of annihilation now in full swing," the Germans said. Red troops were reported isolated from railway supply lines in the Ukraine. Moscow reported its southern armies were engaged in a supreme effort to break the Nazi pincer drives north and south of Kiev.

The Germans said a major Russian force defending the approaches to Moscow had been destroyed in a trap east of Smolensk. The Russians disputed this, declaring their army of the center was holding firm.

Russia to Take Seat in Allied Parley on War

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Russia will sit in at the next meeting of the allied governments in London, it was disclosed tonight, thus fixing the final seal on her new alliance with Britain.

The meeting, which diplomatic sources state will likely take place shortly, will be similar to one held on June 12 at which the delegations pledged mutual aid against the axis. Apart from discussing ways in which the allies can strengthen one another militarily, the meeting will probably begin a discussion of post-war reconstruction problems, particularly economic.

Red May Join Famed Club.

Other indications that the British are becoming accustomed to the idea of Russia as an ally were the staging of an Anglo-Russian fair at Battersea park in London today and an announcement that the Russian ambassador, Ivan Maisky, had been nominated to membership in the exclusive St. James's club in Piccadilly. The club is described as the "most famous diplomatic club in the world." At one time its membership included six foreign royalties. German diplomats were excluded after the World war until 1926.

Maisky's nomination, Hannen Swaffer stated in the Daily Herald, was accomplished "to the consternation of the more sniffy members."

Hopkins to See Churchill.

Harry L. Hopkins, American lend-lease coördinator and President Roosevelt's special envoy, who returned last night from conferences with Josef Stalin at Moscow, rested in seclusion. He has arranged to see Prime Minister Winston Churchill and other members of the war cabinet before he returns to America. Churchill is preparing a review of the war situation for debate in the house of commons.

The Daily Telegraph diplomatic correspondent described Hopkins' impressions of the Moscow trip as "encouraging."

Hopkins, the Daily Telegraph said, "fully confirms reports that Stalin and soviet officials are highly confident of their ability to ward off Germany's next and third main offensive."

OCEAN IS SAFER, BRITISH SOCIETY SAYS; SPURS AID

New York, Aug. 4 [Special].—Asserting Atlantic sea lanes are less dangerous while Germany's resources are thrown into the war against Russia, the British War Relief society today launched a campaign to load every available ship with clothing for Great Britain, where those articles are rationed.

James C. Lindsay, shipping superintendent of the British War Relief society, appealed for at least 100 women volunteers to keep the clothing moving as quickly as it arrives.

Lindsay said ships are leaving for Britain every day from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Miami Beach, and New Orleans.

SOVIET ORDERS FOR WAR GOODS TO GET PRIORITY

Speed Is Promised in Welles' Note.

Bomb Sight at Issue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson have disagreed on the question of turning over this country's best bomb sight and formerly its No. 1 military secret to soviet Russia, it was reported in reliable quarters tonight. Great Britain has the bomb sight, and it is understood that the President wants the Russians to have it. Stimson, it is said, opposes giving the bomb sight to the Russians on the ground that, having made one deal with Nazi Germany, they may make another before the war in Europe is over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4—All possible material assistance short of credit was pledged to communist Russia in its war with Nazi Germany by the Roosevelt administration tonight.

Ambassador Oumansky.

The United States promised to give Russia priority in the delivery of essential war materials to expedite the placing of Russian war orders, and to consider the extension of available shipping facilities for the delivery of war supplies. This country also promised to issue unlimited licenses permitting the export of a wide variety of articles, thereby removing all restrictions and regulations to prevent any interference with the flow of materials.

Commercial Pact Extended.

The promises of this government were contained in an exchange of notes between Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Constantine Oumansky, ambassador to the United States. The notes extended for one year the existing commercial agreement with Russia, which has been renewed annually since its adoption in 1937.

Russia will not share assistance with Great Britain and China under the so-called lend-lease program, at least for the present. The Reds have ample gold supplies with which to pay for their purchases.

Ambassador Oumansky said he supposed that the shipping shortage would be the biggest obstacle to the Russian aid program.

Text of Welles' Note.

The text of Undersecretary Welles' note to Oumansky follows:

"I am pleased to inform you that the government of the United States has decided to give all economic assistance practicable for the purpose of strengthening the soviet union in its struggle against armed aggression.

"This decision has been prompted by the conviction of the government of the United States that the strengthening of the armed resistance of the soviet union to the predatory attack of an aggressor who is threatening the security and independence not only of the soviet union but also of all other nations is in the interest of the national defense of the United States.

Friendly Consideration Pledged.

"In accordance with this decision of the government of the United States and in order to implement the policy enunciated above, the government of the United States is giving the most friendly consideration to requests from the government, institutions, or agencies of the soviet union relative to the placing in this country of orders for articles and materials urgently required for the needs of the national defense of the soviet union and, for the purpose of promoting the speedy completion and delivery of such articles and materials, is extending to these orders priority assistance upon the principles applicable to the orders of countries struggling against aggression.

"In order to facilitate the extension of economic assistance to the soviet union, the department of state is also issuing unlimited licenses permitting the export to the soviet union of a wide variety of articles and materials needed for the strengthening of the defense of that country, in accordance with the principles applicable to the furnishing of such articles and materials as are needed for the same purpose by other countries resisting aggression.

"The appropriate authorities of the government of the United States, in pursuance of the decision to which I have above referred, are also giving their favorable consideration to requests for the extension of available American shipping facilities for the purpose of expediting the shipment to the soviet union of articles and materials needed for the national defense of that country."

Oumansky Voices Confidence.

In reply Oumansky wrote to Welles that the soviet government was confident that the "economic assistance you refer to in your note will be of such scope and carried out with such expedition as to correspond to the magnitude of the military operations in which the soviet government, in offering armed resistance to the aggressor—a resistance which, as you so justly observed, is also in the interest of the national defense of the United States."

"On behalf of my government," Oumansky said, 'I wish to emphasize the correctness of the view that the aggressor who has treacherously invaded my country is threatening the security and independence of all freedom loving nations and that this threat naturally creates a community of interest of national defense of those nations."

2 DRAFT OFFICERS GET PRISON FOR $35 BRIBERY PLOT

Two draft board officials recently convicted of conspiracy and bribery to defer a draftee were sentenced yesterday to federal penitentiary terms by Judge William J. Campbell in the federal District court. They are Attorney Joseph W. Nosek, 52 years old, chairman of draft board No. 110 and a former captain in the National Guard, who drew a three year sentence for accepting a $35 bribe, and Dr. J. P. Gardzielewski, 39, the board's examining physician, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for conspiring with Nosek.

Joseph W. Nosek (top) and Dr. J. P. Gardzielewski.

After their pleas for new trials were denied, Cameron Latter and James G. Daniels of the defense counsel, entered motions for probation, but Judge Campbell also turned these down. The defense was allowed 20 days to file an appeal.

The case, first of its kind in the Chicago area, developed after Walter L. Kukovec, 26, of 428 South Halsted street, a laborer, told federal investigators that Gardzielewski had offered to help defer him. The doctor, Kukovec testified, sent him to Nosek, who arranged to defer him for $35. Nosek lives at 1808 Blue Island avenue and Gardzielewski at 2119 South Ashland avenue.

NEW COMMANDER ARRIVES TO LEAD NAVAL AIR WORK

Commander Richard F. Whitehead has arrived at the Great Lakes Naval Training station to take charge of aviation activities in the 9th naval district, it was announced yesterday.

Commander Whitehead.

The active naval career of Commander Whitehead began when, as a member of the Massachusetts naval militia, he was commissioned ensign on the day of America's entry into the World war. In 1924 he was ordered to the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla., where he began his work in naval aviation.

He has won the Distinguished Flying Cross for his work as photographic officer of the Alaska aerial survey expedition in 1926, the Victory Medal, and the Destroyer Clasp.

HULL RESTATES WAR OBJECTIVE AND HINTS AEF

Secretary Predicts Axis Powers Will Lose.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4—Returning to his desk after a month's rest, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today restated the administration's objective to destroy the totalitarian governments that have embarked on wars of conquest in Europe and Asia.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

In envisaging defense of the United States, "whenever and wherever such defense is most effective," the American minister of foreign affairs hinted at the dispatch of American expeditionary forces overseas if necessary to defeat the Germans in Europe or the Japanese in Asia, or both.

To accomplish this purpose, however, Mr. Hull said that "absolute unity" among Americans and other unconquered peoples is essential.

May Bring Americans Home.

One of the first matters to claim Secretary Hull's attention is the plight of Americans in Japan who want to come home, but are unable to obtain steamship passage since the Japanese canceled sailings of Japanese ships to the United States. The maritime commission will furnish ships to bring the Americans home whenever Mr. Hull deems it advisable.

Mr. Hull declined to discuss specifically Japanese actions in the South Pacific and Hitler's invasion of Russia, but said he had some thoughts to express on the general situation.

"I think," said Mr. Hull, "that no rational person needs any argument to convince him that during the weeks of my absence the most clinching demonstration has been given of what some of us for some years have insisted was being planned.

Hits Wars of Conquest.

"That is, that there is a world movement of conquest by force, accompanied by methods of governing the conquered peoples that are rooted mainly in savagery and barbarism.

"That situation calls for ever increasing preparations for our national defense and ever increasing production of military supplies both for ourselves and for those who are resisting the would be conquerers.

"On these points there should be absolute unity among the American people, in the first place, and among the other free peoples who have not yet been conquered.

"With full effort and ever increasing production and preparation for defense, whenever and wherever such defense is most effective, a successful resistance to the present world movement of invasion and destruction can be made and, in my judgment, undoubtedly will be made.

Makes Plea for Unity.

"I feel very strongly that with unity of purpose, maximum effort and firm determination, the remaining free peoples of the world will win and that those who are at present the victims of the forces of barbarism can hope for the restoration of their human rights and liberties."

Watching Circus

Carter Nixon, 6½ years old, and Barbara Clark, 13, watching the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus yesterday.

Thousands of Chicagoans yesterday again temporarily forgot the war and rising prices by a visit to the big tent covered circus of Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey, down on the lake front, south of Soldiers' field. The most thrilled of course, were the youngsters, but the grownups, too, were enthralled. The aerialists and animals appeared to hold their attention most.

CHARGES O'RYAN ONCE REGISTERED AS JAPS' AGENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 [Special].—Senator D. Worth Clark of Idaho charged in the senate today that Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the 27th division in the World war and recently appointed special assistant to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, was "a publicly registered agent of Japan."

Senator Clark read from what he described as a transcript of a radio debate in 1940 in which Gen. O'Ryan and Representative Joseph C. Baldwin of New York were pitted against Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Representative Hamilton Fish of New York.

He said that Gen. O'Ryan held in the course of that debate that the United States should go to war against Germany but not against Japan, and upon questioning from Wheeler "admitted" that he was registered at the state department as an American representative of the Japanese Economic Federation.

The Idaho senator said he did not question Gen. O'Ryan's motives or his patriotism, but believed it was important for the senate and the country to know of Gen. O'Ryan's connections.

Inquiries at the state department brought the information that Gen. O'Ryan's registry as an agent of the Japanese federation was revoked July 14 as the result of an affidavit filed by him.

DENIED CONTROL OF FUNDS, F. D. R. KILLS ROAD BILL

Objects to Pro Rata Plan for Distribution.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt vetoed a 320 million dollar military highway program today chiefly because he objected to apportionment of 125 millions among the states on a prorata basis rather than giving the executive department power to use the sum at points of greatest preparedness need.

The measure would have authorized 150 million dollars for construction of roads giving access to military and naval reservations and armaments plants; 125 millions for correcting deficiencies in the network of strategic highways; 25 millions for damages to roads as the result of military maneuvers; 10 millions for building "flight strips" along highways to permit emergency landings by military planes, and 10 millions for advance planning.

125 Millions First Asked.

The President had asked congress to authorize a 125 million dollar preparedness road program, covering the major items in the bill which finally passed. This was increased to 320 millions by senate and house amendments.

Mr. Roosevelt did not base his objection on the increased sum but on the principles involved.

In a message sent to the senate in his absence from Washington, the President noted that the 125 millions for fixing deficiencies, such as weak bridges in strategic highways, was to be apportioned to states on the usual federal road aid basis. That is, on the basis of population, area, and other factors.

"Such a distribution formula entirely disregards, it seems to me," he said, "the main purpose to be accomplished, which is that of providing highway construction in particular areas, and in those areas only, where there is immediate need of such construction in the interest of our national defense."

Foresees Need for Larger Sum.

The critical deficiencies in highways and bridges that may require prompt correction in the interest of national preparedness, the President continued, "cannot be reasonably related to the population of states or the other factors which enter into ordinary apportionment."

"The result, therefore," he said, "is the necessity for the appropriation of a far larger sum of money to meet immediate requirements than would be necessary if these funds were applied to critical deficiencies without the apportionment method.

"In fact, it is quite possible that the most critical deficiencies in some areas may not be corrected even with the sum authorized in this bill."

SEND NO MORE AIR LINERS ABROAD, LA GUARDIA ASKS

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia declared today that the United States should send no more transport planes to Great Britain.

"We want to maintain our rightful position in the commercial air field," he said at ground breaking ceremonies for a new $500,000 seaplane hangar at New York airport. The hangar already leased for 40 years at a total rental of $1,400,000 by American Export Airlines, will be completed early in 1942 and will be a base for a new trans-Atlantic air line.

The mayor, who is national director of civilian defense, said:

"As anxious as we are to send planes overseas, I do not think that American aviation should be crippled. We need our transport planes here and we need them badly. After all, we have given a great many military planes and we will continue to give them. I want to see our commercial air lines, our shipping, and our railroads kept up to top condition at all times."

Officials at the ceremony said recent reports from Washington indicated a total of 112 commercial planes had been assigned for Britain, leaving slightly fewer than 350 passenger transport planes available in this country.

U. S. Flyer with Canadian Air Force Killed Abroad

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Pilot Officer Robert F. Minnick Jr., 22 years old, of Flushing, N. Y., who enlisted with the Canadian royal air force a year ago, was killed in an "aircraft accident" overseas Aug. 1, his parents were informed today. The British air ministry cabled the news to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Minnick. The officer arrived in London July 2.

TAKE TO BIKES FOR DEFENSE! NATION URGED

Move Proposed to Save Health and Gas.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 4 [Special].—In the name of national defense the national director of physical training harked back toward those "horse and buggy days" President Roosevelt abhorred by proposing today that the nation be put on bicycles to save gasoline.

John B. Kelly.

The potential seriousness of the suggestion was emphasized by a new threat from Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes. Apparently irked by reports many service stations were flouting his curfew on gasoline and oil sales in the east, Ickes warned that more drastic steps might have to be taken.

Proposal Sent to Mayor.

The back-to-bicycles proposal was made to Mayor Robert E. Lamberton by John B. Kelly, former Philadelphia Democratic chairman who was named last week as national director of physical training.

Kelly said that while his main thought is to improve national health thru more regular exercise, he believes that if Americans pedaled their way about the country it might help to answer transportation difficulties in connection with restrictions on the use of gasoline.

He recommended that Philadelphia start the bicycle program by setting streets aside for exclusive use of cyclists. The mayor turned the suggestion over to the city traffic engineer for an opinion on its feasibility.

Kelly, who held Olympic and national rowing titles in the '20s, set up headquarters today for the national organization he is in the process of building. Athletes will promote the program thruout the nation.

Warns Realty Taxpayers That Deadline Is Sept. 1

County Treasurer John Toman warned real estate taxpayers yesterday that they must pay the final installments of their taxes by Sept. 1 if they want to avoid the penalty of 1 per cent a month. Ten cashier cages are now open in his office to accommodate the taxpayers, he said. Taxes also may be sent by mail.

DEMAND BOOST IN MILK PRICES BE FORESTALLED

Consumers Ask for Curb on Speculation.

Consumer groups voicing objections to a prospective increase up to 2 cents a quart in the retail price of milk yesterday asserted that the government should curb speculation in milk products exported to Britain under the lease-lend bill in order to protect the American consumer.

Mrs. Alice Belester.

Dairy farmers of the Chicago milk shed are asking an increase in the blend price of $2.10 per hundredweight [46½ quarts], which they are estimated to have received during July, to $2.50 or $2.75. Spokesmen yesterday said the farmers need the higher price to offset the highest wages for farm labor in the last 20 years.

They said that a labor shortage had arisen because farm boys were being inducted into the army and other young men were going into defense industry.

Hearing Called by U. S.

Testimony on the proposed price increase was given at a public hearing called by the department of agriculture in the Stevens hotel.

Mrs. Alice Belester of 2853 Neva avenue, executive secretary of the United Conference on the High Cost of Living, representing more than 250,000 consumers in the city, said it was an unsound policy for the federal milk marketing administrator to tie the price of a basic commodity like fresh milk to a speculative commodity like evaporated milk, as now is done.

"The sharp rise recently in the price of evaporated milk is attributed to the purchase of dairy products, especially evaporated milk, by the army and for shipment to England," she said. "But all indications point to speculation as the root of the unjustifiable increase in prices to the consumer that has taken place in recent months.

Belong to Nation as a Whole.

"It is not reasonable that the Chicago consumer should be forced to carry milk costs that belong to the nation as a whole because of the increase in prices of evaporated milk and other milk products due to the program of exporting these commodities to Britain.

"It has been estimated that in order to supply the dairy products needed abroad, a 10 per cent increase in production is required in the United States. If the national policy seeks to stimulate milk production for export to England of manufactured dairy products, American consumers should not be forced to subsidize this production at the expense of their families and children."

Arthur Hartman, president of the Chicago Milk Producers' council, representing several organizations of dairy farmers, testified that the farm labor shortage is so acute that farmers' wives and children are forced to work from 14 to 16 hours a day.

Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association, which represents 12,000 dairy farmers producing for the Chicago market, said the increase to $2.50 or $2.75 a hundredweight sought by the farmers would add one-half a cent to the retail cost of a quart of milk in Chicago, which now is 14 cents.

May Ask Boost in December.

He also said that even tho the farmers are granted an increase now in the price of milk, they might ask another next December, to be effective in July, 1942. Such a request would depend on the possible further increase in living costs, he said.

Fred Nonnamaker Jr., attorney for the Associated Milk Dealers, the Chicago distributors' group, asked if it were not possible that the increase would be more than a cent per quart if the price of butter and other milk commodities also increased. Lauterback admitted that that was a distinct possibility.

Since September, 1939, the Agricultural Adjustment administration and a federal milk market administrator in Chicago have computed the price paid farmers for fluid milk on the price of evaporated milk plus a differential varying from one month to the next. The evaporated milk price is controlled by fluctuations in the butter and cheese market.

The singer had just finished an engagement at a Rockford, Ill., night spot.

Gov. O'Daniel Takes Oath as Senator from Texas

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel took the oath of office today as senator from Texas to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Morris Sheppard. O'Daniel said Texas law automatically terminated his term as governor. Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] escorted him to the chair, where Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], presiding, administered the oath. The new senator then signed his name in the senate register.

ARMS SHORTAGE STILL PLAGUES TROOPS OF 33D

Division Borrows Guns for Training Program.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tullahoma, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Shortages of equipment still handicap the training of Illinois' 33d division, a survey disclosed today as the division made preparations for the trek to Arkansas to take part in the mammoth war games to start Aug. 11.

A complete lack of .50 caliber machine guns necessitated borrowing training weapons from Ohio's 107th cavalry regiment. A shortage of 37 mm. anti-tank guns forced the division to send classes 125 miles to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., to obtain training in the use of this very important weapon.

Trip to Take 12 Days.

Approximately 12 days will be needed to make the 525 mile trip to the maneuver base at Camp Robinson, Ark., because of the scarcity of motor equipment. The 108th quartermaster regiment will have to make several trips as a result of the comparatively small number of trucks. The 58th signal battalion left yesterday for Arkansas.

Another handicap under which the 33d division has been laboring is a lack of professional guidance and advice, because there are no regular army officers with the division. Consequently, the division has had to rely to a considerable extent on the trial and error method of training its men.

Examinations Satisfactory.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton of Chicago, commander of the 33d, expressed the opinion that the division passed its recent examination with flying colors. The tests, extending from July 22 to 25, covered all phases of the first 14 weeks of intensive training since the Illinois National Guard was called into federal service. No official rating or comment has been received from Washington, D. C., on a report of the examinations.

Gen. Lawton said the greatest obstacle encountered by the troops during their first four months in the army was forgetting their civilian habits. The men were willing enough, their commander said, but the transition from civilian life to the daily routine of army life is so great that it took time to accomplish.

U. S. ARMY TESTS 'COURAGE PILLS' FOR PARATROOPS

Fort Snelling, Minn., Aug. 4 (AP).—Condensed meals, their weight figured in ounces and including the contents of the German "courage tablets," may become the new field ration of the United States' parachute and mechanized army units.

Tests of the new rations under field conditions started today with a dozen soldiers from this army post and officers playing the part of guinea pigs. If they are satisfactory more extensive trials will be made during maneuvers next month.

Lieut. Col. Rohland A. Isker, QMC, chief of the army subsistence laboratory in Chicago, is directing the tests of the diet, which was prepared largely by Dr. Ancel Keys, professor of physiology and physical education at the University of Minnesota medical school in Minneapolis.

CITY DECIDES TODAY ON APPEAL AGAINST MILK CARTON RULING

Whether Chicago will carry to the United States Supreme court its fight against the admission of paper milk bottles to the Chicago market depends upon the decision to be reached this morning at a conference of Mayor Kelly and Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes.

Judge Major.

Yesterday the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld an injunction granted the Dean Milk company last October by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, restraining the city from prohibiting the use of paper containers. While the mayor would make no comment last night indications were that the city will not appeal the case. Board of health officials said the Circuit court ruling will not affect their procedure inasmuch as paper bottles have been permitted here since October. Regulatory provisions of the United States Public Health service and the state milk law have been used for inspection purposes.

Sam Dean Sr., president of the Dean Milk company, said he expected the firm would expand its activity in Chicago in the light of the court ruling. Officials of both Borden-Wieland and the Bowman Dairy company said those dairies will continue to supply both glass and paper bottled milk.

The circuit court opinion was signed by two of the three sitting judges, Judge J. Earl Major and Judge Will M. Sparks. Federal District Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville dissented.

The opinion overruled Judge Woodward on his decision that a paper milk bottle is a "standard milk bottle," as the terms of the city milk ordinance require, but concurred with Judge Woodward in his decision that the city milk ordinance which prohibits paper containers is invalid in the face of a state law passed in 1939. This state ordinance permits paper containers and provides for their regulation.

SENATE PUTS O. K. ON CHAFFEE AS MAJOR GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Brig. Gen. Adna Romanza Chaffee to the permanent rank of major general after hearing Senator A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.], describe the general as "one of the great army men" and the "father" of the army's motorized forces.

General Chaffee, who has had a temporary appointment as major general in the army of the United States, is ill in a Boston hospital. Saturday he was presented with an oak-leaf cluster citation for his distinguished service medal.

A native of Junction City, Kas., Gen. Chaffee once was a cavalry officer and is one of the best known horsemen in the army.

MOTHER OF SLAIN FT. KNOX SOLDIER VOICES PROTESTS

Charges 'Mishandling' of Her Son's Case.

Pendleton, Ind., Aug. 4 [Special].—The mother of a young Indiana soldier killed by guards at Fort Knox, Ky., protested tonight against what she declared was the mishandling of the case of her son, Private Carl B. McClellan, 19 years old, who was fatally wounded Wednesday night in a guardhouse riot of 350 prisoners at the camp.

McClellan died of a wound which he received when guards fired over the prisoners' heads and a ricochetting bullet struck him in the back.

Mrs. Mary McClellan Foster of Pendleton said she is writing a letter to Col. N. Butler Briscoe, post commandant, asking that he give her a full report of the manner in which her son was killed. Col. Briscoe did not make public an account of the death or the riot until last night, four days after they occurred.

Suspects Something's Wrong.

"It seems to me there's something strange about the whole thing," Mrs. Foster said. "Why should they have to lock up 350 men who are serving their country? There must be something the matter there that they haven't a better system of control, that hundreds of men have to be locked up, and that such violent methods as gunfire are required to keep them in hand."

Mrs. Foster, who is divorced from Carl's father and remarried, said her son had planned to make a career of the army. He enlisted for three years in August, 1940, she said.

Father Criticizes Treatment.

The youth's father, Clarence McClellan, a WPA worker who lives in Bicknell, Ind., also criticized the treatment of his son and said he would press to the limit of his meager resources for a full investigation. He declared the military authorities had dealt unfairly with him by telling him when he went to claim his son's body that the youth had been killed in a rifle range accident.

Col. Briscoe reported the trouble started when guards opened fire as a prisoner climbed over two wire fences surrounding the guardhouse and escaped. The prisoner was captured.

The other prisoners, most of them held for minor infractions, rushed out of their barracks and started throwing rocks, the commander said. The guards fired several shots over their heads but had to use a fire hose to halt the disorder.

Defends Guards' Action.

Fort Knox, Ky., Aug. 4 [Special].—Col. N. Butler Briscoe, post commander of Fort Knox, announced today the release of the four military guards who fired shots during a guardhouse riot in which an inmate was killed. He said that altho the guards acted within their duty they would be tried by court martial to prevent them being subject to action by a civil court.

Nye Criticizes "Morale."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 [Special].—Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] today mentioned reports of rioting at Fort Knox, Ky., in a senate speech, as an example of the morale in army camps. When told the father of a soldier killed in the riot reported he had been told at the camp his son was killed in a rifle range accident, Nye said: "It is not surprising they told the father he was killed in an accident on the rifle range and tried to suppress the news of the riot. To reveal that the boy was killed in a guardhouse riot it was necessary to disclose that there were 350 guardhouse prisoners, most of them charged with having been A. W. O. L. This is a situation with respect to morale which the army naturally would not wish to advertise."

BATTLE TO DEATH RAGES NEAR KIEV, GERMANS CLAIM

Declare Red Front Broken in Smolensk Area.

BERLIN, Aug 5 [Tuesday] (AP).—German sources reported early today that Nazi columns were fighting encircled Russian troops south of Kiev in a battle of annihilation "now in full swing." Destruction of a major soviet force near Smolensk also was reported.

The Germans pictured the weight of the German offensive as having shifted from the Smolensk area, where Russian resistance was declared to have been broken, to the Kiev sector, wnere the high command said Red troops were isolated from railroad supply lines.

In the drive on Leningrad, German pressure on soviet forces was increasing, a military spokesman said. Portions of two Russian units were said to have surrendered tc encircling German troops northwest of Lake Peipus, on the Estonian frontier.

Called Vital to Defenders.

Russian railroad communications were cut by German and Hungarian troops thrusting deep into the Ukraine toward Kiev, it was officially declared. The rail lines destroyed were not identified tho it was remarked that they were vital to the defenders.

South of Kiev German tank units were declared to have broken down the Red defense lines to burst out into the flat, open country.

Surviving units of the soviet army in the Smolensk theater, a communique said, face dissolution.

As to the center, however, it was conceded that despite the demolition of another major obstacle on the way to Moscow the bitterly resisting Russians might be able to organize still other defenses before the city.

Thrust Deep and Turn.

The primary objective in each instance, it was stated, was the same; to destroy the Russians rather than to push them back.

Thus in the Ukraine German accounts indicated that encirclement maneuvers were being carried out by motorized detachments thrusting deep into soviet country in column formation and then swinging to right or left to pinch off soviet forces.

Military commentators admitted that these thrusts were under vicious attack and the soviet troops were trying to cut the long, thin and swinging German columns.

In the aerial offensive, the high command reported an overnight bombing attack on Moscow, in which supply and armament centers were declared hit along with an important traffic junction "in the region of the source of the Dvina river."

Finns Smash Soviet Tanks.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 4 (AP).—Finnish troops driving toward Petrozavodsk, a key Russian city on the Murmansk-Leningrad railroad, were reported tonight to have smashed 54 soviet tanks and four armored cars in bitter fighting north of Lake Ladoga.

The newspaper Ilta Sanomat said soviet counterattacks had failed to check the Finnish drive, and the high command said the Russians had lost great numbers of men.

In the Hango sector of southwestern Finland an official Finnish military report said Finnish artillery scored direct hits on ships at sea and on Hango harbor where the Russians have held a leased naval base since the 1939-'40 war.

Fighting Reported in New Sector

The situation yesterday along the German-Russian war front. Diagonal shading indicates area thru which Germans apparently passed to reach Kholm, a new sector where fighting was reported by Russians.

Principal rail lines of Ukraine and spearheads of German drives thrusting to north and south of Kiev. Russians report a supreme effort to check the drives. Military experts suggest southern drive may be aimed toward Black sea to cut off Russian soldiers in southwest Ukraine.

NAZIS DRIVE NEW 70 MILE WEDGE, MOSCOW ADMITS

Push Between Smolensk and Leningrad.

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Red army, battling bitterly against a double drive into the Ukraine, reported today the Germans have smashed another triangular wedge into the northern flank of the front halfway between the Smolensk salient and Leningrad.

The Moscow war bulletin declared fierce fighting had developed in the vicinity of Kholm, easternmost point of a triangle based on Pskov, 100 miles northwest, and Polotsk, 100 miles southwest.

Kholm, little town in the marshlands north of White Russia, is 70 miles deeper into soviet territory than Novorzhev, where fighting in this sector was reported last week.

Moscow Raided Again.

The Red army said the fighting continued in the Smolensk salient and near Bel Tserkov, southern arm of the pincers closing in on the Ukrainian capital.

Twenty German planes were destroyed by bombs on German airdromes and six Russian planes were listed as lost.

Moscow was attacked by German bombers last night in the 12th attack on the blacked-out soviet capital. One German plane was shot down and firemen extinguished incendiary bombs which fell in the city.

The Red armies of the south were engaged in a supreme effort to break the German offensives aimed at engulfing Kiev, the capital of the rich agricultural Ukraine.

The soviet command's communique, for the third successive day indicating preoccupation with the situation in the south, declared by implication that furious resistance was holding the Nazis in check both in the vicinity of Korosten and Bel Tserkov.

Two Parallel Salients.

The first lies 80 miles northwest of Kiev; the latter about 50 miles to the southwest. The picture thus was one of two roughly parallel and far separated Nazi salients which the invaders appeared to be trying to extend at presumably enormous cost.

[The German thrust to Bel Tserkov, an important railway junction, was viewed by some military experts as possibly the cutting edge of a huge southward turning movement down the west bank of the Dnieper river. If this movement reached the Black sea it probably would cut off the Russian armies in southwestern Ukraine.]

All official information available here indicated that neither German column had made any progress of consequence in uninterrupted and 'round-the-clock fighting.

Finland Prepares Return Permits for Karelian Land

(Picture on back page.)

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 4 (AP).—Refugees from territory in the Karelian isthmus, ceded to soviet Russia by Finland at the end of the 1939-40 war, were told today to report to local refugee relief headquarters for permits to return to their homes following reconquest of the land.

TURKS AROUSED OVER BRITISH PLEA TO LET RUSSIA RULE IN EAST

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 4.—Turkish official circles tonight expressed annoyance at a London Times editorial of Aug. 1 which sought to convey the impression that Russia must dominate eastern Europe after the war.

The authoritative Hussein Caid Yalchin, writing in the Yeni Sabah, took issue with the London Times' statement that "this leadership [of eastern Europe] can fall only on Germany or Russia. . . . There can be no doubt that British and Russian—and maybe American—interests alike demand that Russian influence in eastern Europe should not be eclipsed by Germany."

Yalchin declared: "If the German propaganda had spent millions it would not have been able to cause England so much moral and material damage as this article."

Turkish circles expressed suspicion of the motives behind the London Times' editorial, saying the new Anglo-Russian coöperation perhaps has carried the British beyond the point to which they want to go.

PROPOSE DENTAL TREATMENTS FOR DRAFT REJECTEES

Trustees of the American Dental association proposed a plan yesterday whereby many men rejected for military service because of defective teeth may be made available for the army. More than 50,000 dentists would assist in the program, said Dr. Wilfred H. Robinson of Oakland, Cal., association president.

A survey made by the association showed that 75,000 of the first 1,400,000 men examined by selective service boards were rejected principally because of dental defects. Perhaps 60,000 of them could pass the army tests with remedial treatment, the association stated.

The plan, to be submitted to army, naval and draft officials, recommends that draftees rejected for dental defects be placed in a special classification if those defects are remedial. Then those draftees would be requested to consent to dental treatment to enable them to meet army requirements. The treatment would not be compulsory and would be free to those unable to pay for it, the funds in these cases to come from the government.

PHILIPPINES AIR FORCE PUT UNDER NEW COMMAND

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 4 (AP).—Swift consolidation of Philippine armed forces under Lieut. Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, commanding the United States army in the far east, was augmented today by steps designed to strengthen domestic preparation of the islands for any emergency.

Announcement that the Philippine Air corps hereafter would be known as the Air Force of the Far Eastern command was followed quickly by action of President Manuel Quezon in authorizing promotion of 52 Philippine army officers, including three to be colonels.

The advisability of stationing guards at all oil tanks and other fuel storage facilities to prevent sabotage was considered by the civilian emergency administration. Two thousand additional constabularymen will be moved into Manila, bringing the total in this area to 4,000.

ARMED, READY, ADMIRAL SAYS OF COAST GUARD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4 [Special].—Shipping and iceberg patrols of the United States coast guard now are fully armed and prepared for "more serious work," Rear Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the service, said here today.

Admiral Waesche addressed 22,000 coast guardsmen on duty in this country, Alaska, Hawaiian Islands and other points in a radio broadcast marking the 151st anniversary of the founding of the service.

More than 1,000 officers, enlisted men and civilians attended the ceremonies here, which included the dedication of the new $500,000 base in Absecon Inlet.

"This is a period of emergency which has brought into action a plan of service activities best suited to serve the immediate interests of the nation," Rear Admiral Waesche said. "Our seagoing cutters, normally engaged in patrolling our coasts for the protection of shipping and the enforcement of law, now are fully armed and prepared for patrols of a more serious nature."

VICHY HINTS: NO WAR BASES FOR AXIS IN AFRICA

Statement Bares Stand in Reply to Welles.

VICHY, France, Aug. 4 (AP).—Authorized sources indicated tonight that France would refuse to grant the axis military facilities in North Africa such as Japan got in Indo-China even if Vichy considered the North African territories menaced by attack.

This indication was contained in a statement to correspondents in answer to a statement by the United States acting secretary of state, Sumner Welles. Welles said on Saturday that the United States attitude toward Vichy would be determined by "the effectiveness with which France defends its territories against the axis powers' aggression."

Stand Is Explained.

The Vichy statement follows:

"1. In Syria we had to do with plain aggression by England without an ultimatum and without forewarning. We had an army which we could hope to supply with reinforcements and materials and which, in fact, resisted 31 days.

"2. In Indo-China on Aug. 30, 1940, we had to recognize the preponderant position of Japan in the far east and on that account gave it military facilities. America did not react at that moment.

"3. Now Japan tells us enemy [this was clarified verbally to mean 'Chinese'] concentrations were threatening Indo-China. At the moment Indo-China is cut off from the homeland. We can not send reinforcements there. Hence we accepted Japanese military precautions thru the Kato agreement [concluded with Japanese Ambassador Sotomatsu Kato].

"This situation is not found in any other part of what is left of the French empire, and particularly in Africa."

"Nearest" to Official Reply.

Correspondents were told that the statement was the nearest thing to an official answer to Welles' assertion that could be made since the French vice premier, Jean Darlan, holds no press conferences.

The cabinet previously was reported to have rejected German proposals for a military accord on Dakar, French West Africa, at a meeting on Saturday that followed a conference between the United States ambassador, Admiral William D. Leahy, and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, French chief of state.

The German controled Paris press accused Ambassador Leahy of having stiffened Petain to resist German pressure. L'Oeuvre described Leahy as the "ambassador of President Roosevelt, Churchill [British prime minister], and Stalin [Russian premier] rolled into one."

In unoccupied France the press praised Petain for resisting German pressure.

Mediterranean War Flares Anew

Points of new war activity yesterday in the Mediterranean theater, where the intensity of the conflict was stepped up by both sides.

LONG QUIET WAR IN AFRICA STIRS TO LIFE AGAIN

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 4 (AP).—The war in the Mediterranean, left to take a routine course when the Germans turned from the battle of Crete to an invasion of Russia, showed signs of rousing today.

The British declared the axis has relaxed its siege lines about Tobruk and reported heavy aerial onslaughts on numerous objectives, while the Egyptians acknowledged that 17 persons were killed and 58 injured in wide axis raids on the Suez canal area and the delta of the Nile.

The middle east command said British patrols reported growing nervousness in the axis lines, possibly because of a partial withdrawal of German forces. The British said whole squadrons of American-made Maryland [Martin] bombers flown by South Africans dropped scores of bombs on axis targets about Tobruk.

Fragments of numerous grounded Italian fighters were seen flying into the air from explosions in another British raid at Reggio Calabria, on the "toe" of the Italian boot, a communique added. Direct hits on blockhouses, and bombing and machine-gunning of searchlights, anti-aircraft batteries, barracks and airdromes at Bengazi, Gambut, Barce, and Misurata also were reported.

Air raid alarms were sounded last night at Cairo, Alexandria, Suez, and Port Said, but the ministry of the interior said no great material damage was done.

JAPANESE LINER, CARGO UNLOADED, SAILS FOR HOME

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Japanese liner Tatuta Maru sailed for home today after hastily unloading its 2½ million dollar cargo of raw silk.

The 15 million dollar ship, with emergency longshore crews working around the clock, discharged the last of her cargo about 6 o'clock last night. Then her officers rounded up her 125 passengers, who had been waiting several days for sailing, rushed aboard 1,000 barrels of motor oil [all that was granted of a request for 9,000 barrels], ballast cargo of cocoa beans and asphalt, and called for a pilot to take the vessel outside the Golden Gate.

Deputy United States marshals, who had guarded the ship since American consignees filed libel actions against the cargo last week, left the vessel as the cargo was deposited and the liens lifted.

JAPAN SUSPENDS ALL STEAMSHIP SERVICE TO U. S.

TOKIO, Aug. 4 (AP).—All regular direct Japanese steamship service with the United States has been suspended, it was reliably reported today, and an all-out economic, industrial, political, and social mobilization to counter United States and British pressure is likely to come next week.

Severance of steamship connections with the United States, for the time being at least, was reported completed when departure of the Nitta Maru, the Hikawa Maru, and other vessels was postponed indefinitely.

About 600 Americans and several thousand American born Japanese are in Japan.

Halt Service to Australia.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 4 (AP).—Japan has canceled steamship sailings to Australia, shipping circles learned unofficially today.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP WARSPITE REPORTED SEEN IN GULF OF SIAM

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Aug. 4 (AP).—The great battleship Warspite heads an augmented British naval squadron sent to guard the empire's interests in the far eastern seas, it was reported here tonight.

The reports said the 30,600 ton battleship, first British ship of her class to cruise east of Suez in many years, was seen at the head of a squadron in the Gulf of Siam.

A Japanese aircraft carrier and a submarine arrived here and more transports were reported en route. Roads were clogged with Japanese troops moving toward the Thailand [Siam] border.

World War Veteran Chosen Head of Army in Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 4 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Sir Iven Mackay, a World war veteran, today was appointed to the new post of army commander in chief in Australia.

LET THE PEOPLE BE HEARD ON WAR, ASKS DR. MORLEY

Dr. Felix Morley, president of Haverford college, said last night that the great need of the nation is to develop means of making the government responsive to the wishes of the great mass of relatively inarticulate citizens.

Dr. Morley, speaking at the sixth annual institute of the University of Chicago's graduate library school, said that the administration now commands more than adequate media for transmitting its views to the public, but that the public has no comparable means of transmitting its views or impressing its will on the administration.

"The public should be getting its attitude across more effectively to the government," he said. "For it seems indisputable that to put a reluctant nation into war thru some administratively provoked incident off Iceland or Indo-China would be eventually disastrous both for the country and for the principles of democracy to which we pay such ardent lip service."

Dr. Morley said that it is the less articulate sections of the population which are most dubious of the government's course.

THE GUARDHOUSE RIOT.

An Indiana boy, 19 years old, was killed a few nights ago in a guardhouse riot at Fort Knox, Ky. It appears from the commandant's account that a prisoner was seen escaping over the fence. When he refused to halt, several of the guards fired. They missed their mark, but the shooting aroused the other prisoners, some 350 in all, who rushed from their barracks to hurl stones at guards and officers. Four of the guards thereupon began firing over the heads of the prisoners. One bullet ricocheted from a pillar and struck the Indiana boy. The disturbance was finally quelled by turning a fire hose on the rioters.

The commandant has ordered ballistics tests to determine, if possible, which of the guards fired the fatal shot; that man is then to be tried for manslaughter before a military court.

For the present nothing is to be gained by discussing the guilt or innocence of a man who is still to be charged with an offense, but the incident does raise a number of questions into which congress might well inquire. For one thing, the presence of 350 men in the guardhouse might be looked into. The number is not large, perhaps, in relation to the 35,000 men who are said to be stationed at Fort Knox, but it is still large enough to suggest that all is not as it should be in a well managed camp.

The riotous disposition of the prisoners is a more disturbing fact. Some of the dispatches have suggested that the guards had been expecting trouble, and the speedy development of the riot gives some support to this theory. If tension exists, congress ought to find out why. It is expectable that military prisoners will be more or less sullen and it is expectable, also, that the guardhouse population will contain a high proportion of the lazy, the irresponsible, and the undisciplined, but guardhouse riots are uncommon. There may be circumstances behind this incident which, for the good of the army, should be corrected.

In a recent work on mutiny, Mr. T. H. Wintringham, a British author, notes that "in all the military history of the United States of America, there have been no mutinies of importance," a fact of which we have much reason to be proud. There have been outbreaks of mass disobedience in almost every other nation's armed forces, and these incidents have not been confined to the remote past. Just the other day, some Canadian soldiers disregarded the orders of military police and wrecked a traveling show. There was most serious trouble in the French army in the spring of 1917 after the bloody failure of the Nivelle offensive. Not long afterward, the Russian army proved unreliable against the revolutionaries in St. Petersburg. The revolutionary movement in Germany in the autumn of 1918 began in the navy. There were mutinies in the British army following the armistice and there was trouble in the British navy, the so-called Invergordon incidents, as recently as 1931.

All of these uprisings might have been prevented, and most of them clearly could have been prevented, if corrective measures had been adopted in time. Some of the troubles were attributable to poor food, others to needlessly harsh discipline, still others to disregard of the men's welfare by their officers. So far as the French and British incidents are concerned, the reforms which followed the disorders served to restore discipline fairly promptly. It seems certain that if the same measures had been adopted some months sooner there would have been no indiscipline.

There is special reason in our army these days to avoid every avoidable cause of irritation. Much more than half of the enlisted personnel consists of drafted men and Guardsmen who entered federal service in the expectation that they would be released, if they wished to be, at the end of 12 months' service. They are now told that their term will be extended, perhaps indefinitely. They cannot see the end of the business. The war for which they are being trained is not a popular one. At such a time congress should be most vigilant to defend the proud record of 150 years without a serious breach of discipline in our armed forces.

BUY (ILLINOIS) COAL NOW.

An Indiana coal distributor, and president of a local coal dealer's association, writes to THE TRIBUNE complaining bitterly about the editorial of July 20 entitled "Cold Weather Is Coming," in which we urged people to buy their winter coal supply in July and August. He asserted that the "buy your coal now" movement had created such a panic among consumers that he cannot fill half his orders, and doesn't know when he'll be able to do so.

This coal dealer doesn't mind having a backlog of orders, but he doesn't know at what price he'll be able to fill the orders, and doesn't like being swamped with calls from irate householders who want to know why their bins haven't been filled. We helped make a bad situation worse, he thinks. The national administration, according to our correspondent, "has been using the 'buy now' coal slogan as a means of creating war hysteria," and we "have been helping the war mongers with their game."

Our critics have found many faults with us, but none before has accused us of war mongering, and we would like to think that the coal dealer's charge is not well founded. Our advice to our readers to prepare now to meet their winter fuel needs was based upon a number of incontestable facts. If heating coal is unavailable with the temperature 100, will it be plentiful when it is down to zero? The industries of the country are now turning out a bigger volume of product than ever before, and a great further expansion is about to take place. This is certain to mean an unprecedented demand for coal by the manufacturing industries. This expansion in business may put a serious strain upon the railroads, and a coal car shortage is a possibility for the coming winter.

Some of the eastern coal which formerly was plentiful for home heating in Indiana and northern Illinois will not be plentiful because of the demand for this kind of coal by the steel and by-product industries. Householders who have been burning coke will not be able to get their usual supplies this year. In the eastern part of the country, the diversion of tankers to the service of the British has already created a gasoline shortage. For the same reason there will be a fuel oil shortage there this winter. This means an increased demand for coal there.

The Indiana dealer who is unable to supply his customers with eastern smokeless coal may well consider whether he should not make arrangements to be supplied by mines in Illinois. Many of the Illinois collieries are operating only three days a week. Illinois coal miners would be happy to relieve our correspondent of annoyance, and his customers of worry.

THE FAKE EMERGENCY.

If the women thought there was a real national emergency, they would gladly accept any of the consequences it brought in its train and they would coöperate in whatever was necessary to meet it. They realize that the emergency the United States is supposed to be in is a fake and that the steps taken to disrupt the course of life here are intended to deceive the people into believing they're about to be attacked by somebody.

The government which does this is itself seeking a chance to make an attack somewhere in Europe, Asia, or Africa. That government knows that 80 per cent of the people are dead set against its purposes. A great majority of the people want their government to keep the peace. They are willing to make any effort necessary to defend this country. That's all they should be expected to do.

The economic warfare against Japan is dislocating both the production and the use of goods here. The shutting down of the processing of raw silk is putting thousands of workers out on the street and it has the women of the country worried about their apparel. They are wondering where they'll get their stockings and what kind of stockings they'll be. They wouldn't mind that if there were a national necessity for it, but they know that their difficulties are made for them because the Washington government is meddling in an imperialist conflict in which the American people have no stake.

These drives at the American people do not promote national defense and they're not intended to. They have the double purpose of offering extraordinary provocation to countries with which our administration wants a war and of instilling in the minds of Americans the suggestion that the war is already a fact. It is as near a fact as our government can possibly make it at the present moment, and only the determination of the people and such of their representatives in congress as are true to them keeps the American armed forces out of the fighting.

SUPPORTING PARENTS.

Stanley Suski served a few hours recently in the county jail because he refused to support his parents. He was sentenced for contempt in the County court after he said that according to his light it was up to the public to support old people.

Suski, who does not appear to be too bright, is more to be pitied than censured. He was, after all, only putting into execution the theories constantly preached by the social workers when he insisted that the support of his parents be shifted to the public. Had he appeared in a Wisconsin instead of an Illinois court it is probable that the court would have upheld him. Wisconsin operates its old age pension act on the stated principle that children should not be penalized financially merely because their parents are healthy and live to an age at which they can no longer support themselves.

There is a logical connection between Suski and the father who abandoned his 3 year old son at the Brookfield zoo recently. Ruling out both filial and paternal affection, as the prophets of the new social order seem determined on doing, the principal reason for supporting your children is that they will support you when you become old. If the kids are not going to support you, why bother with them? Leave them at the nearest orphanage and then you can step out and have a good time of evenings.

The only losers by this New Deal philosophy are the people who retain old fashioned ideas of family affections and family obligations. They have to support not only their own children and parents but also, thru taxes, the children and parents of those who, by the new dispensation, are encouraged to shirk their responsibility. If the people who carry this double burden protest, the social workers who have a fat racket handing out the public money brand them as heartless brutes who would like to see old folks and children starve.

Editorial of the Day

BUILDING UP REJECTED DRAFTEES.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

The extremely high percentage of physical rejections in the draft during the last year was partly due to the inclusion under the selective service act of men up to 35, now cut to 28. But the chief reason is the rigorous character of army physical requirements, which are not going to be reduced.

A substantial proportion of men have been rejected for defects of a character which represent little or no handicap for the work of civil life. Another group, disturbingly numerous, includes men with serious and permanent disabilities.

But there is also a large intermediate class of selectees turned down for conditions that could be corrected and in many cases, for their own good, should be overcome, whether they are ever to go into the army or to carry on their jobs at home.

The point is stressed in the report just made public by the commission on physical rehabilitation, headed by Dr. George Baehr of New York, recently appointed by the health and medical committee of the federal security agency.

One step urged in the report is for draft examiners to segregate remediable cases into classes, partly as an incentive to voluntary efforts at correction and as a preliminary to a comprehensive program of physical rehabilitation to be carried on thruout the country.

The importance of such measures can hardly be overemphasized. As Dr. Baehr's committee says, it should build up available man power for industry as well as for the army and should help to retard any of the disabilities of middle age which have been responsible for unemployable groups in many communities in recent years.

Woman's infatuation with silk thru the centuries has been the subject of many epigrams. First honors in this play of masculine wit goes to no less a prophet than Mahomet himself, who said:

"Silk was invented so that women could go naked in clothes."

* * *

In reflecting upon the mob scenes in the hosiery shops, the opposite sex will do well to remember the great silk shirt fad to which it succumbed in the Other War and the prosperous years that followed. No proletarian's wardrobe was then complete without a half dozen silk shirts, and no shirt was in fashion unless it had a pattern of gaudy stripes about an inch wide.

* * *

The rustle of silken fabrics in skirts and petticoats was a seductive undertone in the symphony of the Victorian era. There is a word in the weaving trade for the characteristic rustling of silk; it is "scroop." One of the requirements for synthetic silk fibers is an ability to produce "scroop."

* * *

Silk was a carefully guarded mystery of the far east until the Byzantine emperor Justinian sent two secret agents [Persian priests] into China in 550 A. D. They returned with the eggs of silk worms concealed in a bamboo staff.

GREAT-AUNT JANE.

She loved the forthright harmonies of earth;
Pied red and yellow tulip, marigold,
Flamboyant zinnia, the gaudy mirth
Of clambering nasturtium, and the bold
Gallardia regaled her garden space
With zestful verve and wholesome merriment.
No pink and blue galled her with fragile grace,
Nor irked her nostrils with their cloying scent.

She had no heart for devious subtlety,
Polite deceitfulness and honeyed tongue.
She scorned sophisticates, content to be
Adored by very old and very young.
As stanch as truth and guileless as the day,
She set her stalwart course and went her way.

Getting a Good Night's Sleep.

One thinks when a cool spell comes along after a heat wave: "Now I shall have a good night's sleep." One undresses and falls asleep, only to be awakened by a couple of lovelorn cats serenading, but falls asleep again, to be jolted awake by the fire department howling by like a panzer division.

One sleeps well once more, just long enough to hear some people beneath one's window discussing whether or not there is an alley behind the building, and if not, why.

One falls asleep again, and this time it is the newspaper boy who comes around, a charming lad who does not bother climbing the stairs. He "whops" the papers against the back doors and whistles blithely on his way, after a few misses.

One is discouraged but tries again, and it is his dog Choppy, who has just discovered it is cool and has come out of the bathroom for the first time in three hot days. One opens the kitchen door so Choppy can lie on the cool cement doorstep and heat it up once more.

It is morning now, altho not time to get up, and one is aware of some one stealthily climbing the back stairs. One sneaks out to the back door for a peek and finds it is the milkman. The milkman must be quiet these days. There are no rattling bottles to cover the noise of his clomping feet.

Now for the last great calamity—the alarm clock. It rings, but one smiles sweetly, turns it off, goes back to sleep, and is an hour late for work.

Whither Are We Drifting?

One manifestation of this mind-muddle which seems to be fairly general is the often heard wail, "I don't see what this country is coming to." I suggest that any one who lacks that information can't read the ticket that our national dictators have handed us. The point of debarkation has a number of monickers, but they all designate the same destination. The route is broad and down hill all the way.

I stood at the door: "Is the lady in?"
She came to receive me with dimpled chin—
With dimpled chin, and rosebud lips,
And mittens over her fingertips;
I asked for her views on this and that,
Apologized that I wore no hat,
And then the discussion became too deep—
Pam yawned in my face—and went to sleep.
(For Pamela Heitz, at this charming stage,
Was just about forty-eight hours of age.)

August Pastoral.

There's a thin, hot glaze over sky and earth, a glaze that quivers and shifts before the weary eye. Trees droop, their thick green leaves gray with dust, and listless in the heavy air. The barley field lies flat and torpid, heat shimmering up from the dull golden stubble. Birds are quiet, sitting motionless, with open beaks and ruffled feathers. This is a midsummer heat wave, enervating, almost unbearable—a vacuum of days that accomplish nothing, either in work or play.

The Queen and her court on a summer's day
Went frolicking down thru the fields of hay.
The Queen was radiant, young and sweet
And the meadows flowered beneath her feet,
Flowered in delicate, lacy swirls
That the courtiers plucked and laid on her curls.
"A cap for our Mistress," the ladies cried.
And to deck her and pelt her the whole court vied.
"Now what so fair for a winsome face?"
One asked and dubbed it "Queen Anne's Lace."

THE OVERLY SENSITIVE NOSE.

MANY of us consider the nose the most important feature. We think of it as an appealing adornment—if it is beautiful. The eyes may be ever so attractive, the lips bowlike and delectable, the complexion perfect—but the proboscis must harmonize with the countenance if a girl is to attain stardom, or a man is to be classed as handsome.

Regardless of outward appearance, nature has assigned to the structure many vital functions. Whether it gives us trouble or not depends upon what goes on within. If the mucous lining is sensitive we may be conscious of a sense of discomfort most of the time.

Unfortunately, a fairly high percentage of the population is allergic to contact substances—at least, in part—and not a few will be aware of irritation in the nasal region. In fact, days attended with complete freedom from annoyance may be few and far between. Furthermore, during the hay fever season, 80 or 90 per cent of those who are susceptible will find themselves quite miserable.

Those who exhibit symptoms at intervals thruout the year display the basic characteristics of hay fever. But the attacks are not severe. As a rule, the eyes are not affected except during the pollen season. However, congestion is complained of, which increases toward nightfall and persists until midmorning of the day following. Thereafter, there may be a fair amount of ease for a few hours, when the victim can breathe thru both nostrils freely. Oddly enough, the clogged feeling will come on again after going to bed.

Now and then only one nostril will become affected, particularly if the patient is lying on his side. Nevertheless, the "stuffiness" may change back and forth, depending upon the position. Some will relate that both orifices feel as tho they were plugged with cotton and the tone of the voice will sound "thick." As a rule, one side at a time suffers obstruction.

As we would expect, the result is a dry mouth, because breathing takes place via the oral cavity. In addition, the ensuing bad taste and foul breath may be anything but pleasant. Each morning on arising, there is a veritable bombardment in the bathroom with a tremendous volume of hawking, rasping, and spitting. If mucus is raised it will be thick and grayish. Not infrequently, a dull headache is the order of the day and a few individuals will present symptoms of typical migraine. Deafness, due to blocking of the Eustachian tube, is likewise well known.

What to do is the question. First of all, we must find the "starter." It is more likely to be something that is inhaled, rather than an edible. Rule number one, then, is to clean the sleeping quarters to the nth degree. Common offenders are dust from feathers or down pillows, hair, wool blankets, drapes, and cosmetics of all types [including powders, shampoos, perfumes]. Emanations from household pets—the family pup, for example—must not be overlooked.

A start can be made in establishing a dustproof room. This may mean scrubbing twice a day, substituting straw matting for carpets, and linen for cotton bedding. Smoke must not be forgotten and an air filter inserted in the lower sash may be helpful.

Since the condition has probably existed for a long time, prompt recovery—even tho the irritant has been banished—cannot be expected. Months on an elimination program may be necessary. If the specific cause can be determined by skin tests, well and good. But the patient may react to so many substances that nothing definite will be identified. Nevertheless, vaccines made from house dust or common molds found growing in the home are often of value. In the meantime, the physician may prescribe local treatment, which will give temporary relief.

We must not forget that the disorder is common and that the feeling of blocking requires no surgical procedure. But patience and skilled care are essential.

FREQUENT BOILS.

S. L. writes: For the last year I have been bothered with boils on my neck and face. How can I prevent them? I am 15 years old.

REPLY.

Boils appear whenever bacteria, such as staphylococci, gain entrance to hair follicles. Prevention means scrupulous cleanliness. Take a tub bath daily, with special attention to the face, scalp, and neck regions. Rinse thoroly in clean water and dry the skin gently with a soft towel. A small amount of antiseptic may be added to the bath water. Make certain that the clothing is clean, particularly collars and shirts—which should be changed daily. Keep soiled fingers away from the affected parts. Frequent washing of the hands is advised. Occasionally, the general resistance needs rebuilding and an iron tonic—coupled with foods rich in vitamins [especially A]—will be helpful.

MILD.

R. S. writes: What climate would be preferable for a summer vacation for a person with high blood pressure.

REPLY.

The things to be avoided are excessive heat, chilling, and too much altitude. An elevation of 5,000 feet, however, is usually well borne. The air should be dry rather than moist, in order to increase elimination. Above all, find a comfortable spot where you can really rest, along with a moderate amount of exercise.

NOT ADVISED.

M. writes: My 18 year old son has a large lower lip. Is there any way this can be reduced in size?

REPLY.

Probably not. If an actual deformity exists, skilled plastic surgery may be considered after full growth has been attained. As a rule, however, interference with nature's handiwork is not recommended. We can capitalize on our features rather than apologize for them.

FOUR FAMOUS DIAMONDS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The following information from a publication by the late Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, former curator of geology at Field museum and an authority on gems, may be of interest to Alden Scott Boyer, who wrote concerning "the largest diamond in the world."

Neither of the diamonds mentioned by Mr. Boyer—the Kohinoor or the Hope—is the world's largest. By far the largest is the Cullinan, which weighed 3,106 metric carats when it was found in 1905 near Pretoria, South Africa. This is equivalent to one and one-third pounds. The dimensions of the diamond in inches were 4x2½x1½. This diamond was presented to King Edward VII. of Great Britain by the assembly of the Transvaal colony in recognition of his grant of a constitution to that colony.

After arrival in London the giant diamond was cut owing to a defective spot in the center of the stone to provide two flawless gems which still are the two greatest known cut diamonds—one weighing 530 carats and the other 309 carats. From the remainder of the stone a number of other diamonds ranging from 4 to 94 carats were obtained. All remain among the jewels of the British crown.

The Kohinoor, altho surpassed by several other diamonds in size, brilliancy, and transparency, is perhaps the best known among English speaking peoples because of its eventful history and the many legends connected with it. It may have been found as much as four or five thousand years ago, but the first definite record is from the year 1304 A. D. when a rajah of Malwar surrendered it as part of the spoils of a battle in which he was defeated by another Indian prince. It was presented to Queen Victoria in 1849 with the annexation of the native Indian state of Punjab. As brought to London in 1851 it weighed 186 carats and was recut to approximately 109 carats.

In comparison with these the Hope blue diamond to which Mr. Boyer refers is comparatively small—it weighs 45½ metric carats. It was owned by Henry Thomas Hope, London banker, in 1830. It was sold in 1906, again in 1909, and finally in 1911 to Edward B. McLean of Washington, who recently died.

A large and famous diamond which was exhibited at the World's Columbian exposition in 1893 is the Tiffany Yellow, a gem of 128½ metric carats, especially notable for its "fire."

Mr. Boyer might be interested to know that all of the diamonds mentioned here, and most of the other famous diamonds of the world, are represented by accurate models on exhibition in the recently opened H. N. Higinbotham Hall of Gems and Jewels at Field museum.

Here is an advertisment in the San Diego Broom: "At 11 a. m. the navy will open bids for scrap aluminum belonging to the navy for sale to junk dealers. Material: Lot 1, 60 tons; Lot 2 [old and new], 10 tons; Lot 3, 60 tons. At buyer's option, the government will load material on railway cars at naval station."

A letter to me from Calumet, Mich., says there is a "lack of work and with the copper mines nearly all shut down." Before me is a report on national defense suggesting substitutes for scarce materials and lists steel to replace copper. Can't the mines be worked?

Steel is recommended in this report as substitute for a number of metals. Did not Leon Henderson, a few days back, place steel on the priority list? What do we substitute for the substitute?

Section 99-12 of the municipal code of Chicago reads, "No person shall spit upon any public sidewalk, or upon the floor of any public conveyance, or upon the floor of any theater, hall, assembly room or public building, under a penalty of not less than one dollar nor more than five dollars for each offense." Why are not these rules enforced?

IGNORANT OF A BEAUTY SPOT.

WHAT THE DONATION MEANS.

Chicago, July 31.—The lease-lend bill was signed on March 11. Please note comparison of meat prices on that date and present market:

	March 11.	July 28.
Live hogs	7.55 avg.	10.75 avg.
Cash lard B/t price	6.00	10.27½
14/16 skin'd hams	19.00	24.25
20/22 skin'd hams	17.37½	21.00
Picnic hams	11.00	17.00
Sausage trimmings	8.00	15.50
Lean saus'ge trim's	17.25	25.50

These prices are wholesale prices taken from official trade papers and the meats quoted are those affected by purchases made for England. All other meats have had a corresponding advance.

The vicious circle arises because this buying for England is a donation. The United States consumer has to pay on the nose if he can afford at all to eat meat and to top it all pay an increased tax to enable to make a gift of this and other products. Where will it stop? Page Mr. Henderson.

A GOOD RIDE FOR A DIME.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Today I rode on what I would call Chicago's finest conveyance. I rode the I. C.—from 3700 south to Van Buren and Michigan in record time. I and every one else on the train had a seat. There was no crowding or jamming. The real treat was I only had to pay a dime, the same price I would have been charged on a bus, on which I probably would have had to stand or if I was lucky and got a seat some guy or gal would be over me with his elbow or her pocketbook in my eye. If the coaches gave me a ride such as I had on the I. C. I'd be the first one to say: "Keep up the fare; as long as I get dependable and speedy service I am willing to pay."

MUST SOUTH SIDERS TAKE IT?

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Well, we suckers on the south side are going to take it on the chin again—unless we make a vigorous protest. Our dear aldermen are apparently going to have water meters installed in every residence and we are to sit complacently by and await the arrival of trebled water bills, not to mention the incidental graft in the purchase, installation and upkeep of the meters.

I haven't read of any south side aldermen who are protesting this further levy on the small property owners.

What about it, folks, are we going to sit by and take it?

APARTMENT LEASE.

Chicago, July 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I leased an apartment for May 1, signed a lease and paid a month's rent. 1.The man I leased from purchased the building last fall from a widow. This widow is the mother of six children.

2. Previous to May 1 the six children demanded the return of the building on the ground that their mother was not in her right mind when she sold the building. A married daughter lives in the apartment I rented and refuses to leave.

3. The present landlord claims it is up to me to get possession of the apartment and he will not release me from the lease.

4. Can he hold me to this lease.

5. If I break the lease is he responsible for the charges incurred by me due to my inability to enter the apartment?

6. Please tell me what action to take.

8,000 TO CREATE SPECTACLE THAT OPENS FESTIVAL

Ancients of Rome Saw Nothing Like It.

Festival Tickets!

Tickets for the Chicagoland Music festival, to be held on the night of Aug. 16 in Soldiers' field, are on sale at 50 cents and $1 at THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices in Tribune tower and at 1 South Dearborn street. All seats are reserved. Mail order checks should be made payable to Tribune Charities, Inc.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

A spectacle far greater than any ever witnessed by the Roman populace in the vast Colosseum of Flavius will open the 12th Chicagoland Music festival on Saturday night, Aug. 16, in Soldiers' field.

An audience twice as large as could be accommodated in the Roman amphitheater will see eight times the number of performers that once set a record in the Colosseum's arena. Tho many Americans—even Chicagoans—think of gigantic amphitheaters in terms of the Colosseum of Rome, there is little comparison between it and Soldiers' field.

The sandy arena of Flavius' high tiered oval was 177 by 281 feet. The greensward inside Soldiers' field measures 300 by 887 feet. Overall, the Colosseum was 510 by 615 feet, while Chicago's amphitheater is 620 by 1,167.

What an Ancient Writer Said.

When 45,000 persons were inside the Colosseum it was jammed. Soldiers' field seats 90,000, and can accommodate more than 100,000.

One ancient writer exclaimed over a historic event that put 1,000 performers into the Colosseum's arena. But the music festival's grand entry will bring out almost 8,000, and there will be room to spare.

On the light flooded field will be assembled a massed brass band of 3,000 pieces, a massed fretted instrument band of 3,000, and an accordion band of 1,500. In addition there will be drum and bugle corps and flag swingers and baton twirlers. And standing in the tiers of seats at the north end of the field will be the festival massed chorus of 1,000 and the Festival Symphony orchestra, directed by Henry Weber.

Signal at Early Twilight.

But it will be the entrance of those 8,000 on the field that will introduce the great show with the blending of music, color, and light that has become its hallmark. The signal for the grand entry will be given at early twilight. Floodlights will flash on and from beneath the sloping sides of the amphitheater will come the boom of martial music.

Out of five arena entrances will troop the brass bands, filling the place with sound. Across the field they'll march to form an immense square in its center. Next will come the great fretted band, making its own music and forming another square just south of the brass.

A few seconds of silence, then more martial music as the drum and bugle organizations file in from the southern entrances, followed by the platoons of flag swingers and baton twirlers. Simultaneously, from two northern gates on either side of the arena the accordion band will march in to take its stand north of the brasses. Between the two bands will be the color guards of all the organizations.

Unfurl Thousands of Flags.

With the flag swingers and baton twirlers ranged around the cinder track that encircles the field, the 12th annual festival will be under way, after the greatest opening spectacle in its history.

The ease and precision with which the mass entry and exit is achieved makes it appear simple. Nothing could be more erroneous. Weeks of planning and arranging go to perfect the necessary split second timing. This is the task of Capt. Howard Stube and Fred W. Miller, veterans of the Music Festival. They are the streamliners.

This year's over-all time for entrances, tableaux, music, singing, exhibitions, and exits will be only 26 minutes. But so much action will be crowded into that short period that it will seem much less.

FUR THIEVES SMASH WINDOW.

Thieves smashed a window of the Kastner fur shop at 515 East 75th street early yesterday and stole a fox paw coat valued at $195.

To Sing in Contests

Lorraine E. Riske (left), dramatic soprano, who will sing tonight at Chicagoland Music Festival vocal contest, and Miss Mary Georgiana Dixon, mezzo-soprano, who will sing tomorrow night.

The west and northwest side voice contest in THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival opens' tonight at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Graemere hotel, 113 North Homan avenue. There are 202 vocalists entered in the west side contest, a festival record for sectional events.

The public is invited to attend, admission is 25 cents. The singers pay no fee to enter the contests. Tonight the tenors, contraltos and baritones will be heard. Tomorrow night sopranos, mezzos and basses will compete. On Thursday and Friday nights the Cook county competition turns to the south and southwest sides of the city. These auditions will be held in the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive.

The judges at the Graemere tonight are Franklin Hathaway, Mrs. Helen F. Cahoon and Ralph Niehaus. Tomorrow night Earle Tanner, Anna Kruetgen and Raymond Koch will be the judges.

HAY FEVER TIME IS HERE AGAIN, EXPERT REPORTS

Chicago's hay fever season has begun. O. C. Durham, chief botanist of the Abbott Laboratories, Inc., in North Chicago, said yesterday that three grains of pollen had been found on a slide exposed by the weather bureau on the federal building roof—the nearest thing to an official opening of the season that Chicago has.

Durham said he had noticed "plenty of weeds" blooming in the suburbs Saturday, in a good state of development. How much the pollen count goes up, and how much hay fever victims suffer, he said, depends on the weather at the time of distribution. If there is a strong wind from the southwest, noses run and eyes water. If the wind is from the lake, there is little pollen in the air.

FIGHT 2 FIRES A BLOCK APART AT SAME TIME

Firemen fought two fires a block apart at the same time last night. The first fire attacked the two story building at 1474 Hubbard street, occupied by the U. S. Art Manufacturing company, and the Columbia Art Manufacturing company.

Damage was estimated at $15,000 by Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan. Extra fire apparatus was called because of the threat to adjacent buildings.

Just as firemen got the blaze under control, another fire broke out in the boiler room of the two story plant of the Superior Fixture & Cabinet company, 402 Armour avenue, around the corner. This was quickly put out with small loss. The origin of neither fire was learned.

Thailand's Defense Chief Pays Brief Visit to Chicago

CITY ENDS 7 YEAR SLEEP; STUDIES BUS LINE PROFITS

Gets Data on $782,527 Gravy Last Year.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The city of Chicago, which for seven years has let its own petition for a reduction in the 10 cent bus fare sleep undisturbed in the files of the Illinois Commerce commission, decided yesterday to bring itself up to date on the bus situation.

City traction lawyers appeared at the offices of the commerce commission, just across the street from the city hall, and asked for official financial statements filed yearly by the Chicago Motor Coach [bus] company. The city's purpose, it was explained, was to get up-to-date figures on the company's profits, which the city in its 1934 petition charged were "excessive, unjust, and unreasonable."

$782,527 Profit Last Year.

In 1933, the year cited in the city's petition, the coach company reported a net profit of $633,514. Last year its net profit was up to $782,527. From 1934 thru 1940—the period that the city's petition was resting quietly—the company had total net profits of $4,433,000. These profits all accrued to the Omnibus corporation, which bought the coach company in 1923 for $2,750,000.

The occasion for the city's sudden concern over the coach company's profits was an order last week by the newly appointed commerce commission, headed by John D. Biggs. The commission denied the city's request for an 84th continuance of the bus rate case and instructed city attorneys to start submitting their evidence at once. The commissioners overruled the city's contention that its plans for unifying all local transportation lines would be upset by pushing the bus case.

City attorneys, who admitted they had never gathered any evidence to follow thru their 1934 petition, were granted until tomorrow to amend their petition by bringing the figures on the bus company's profits up to date.

Asks Copies of Statements.

Attorney General George F. Barrett and Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th], who recently have stepped into the case in an effort to make the city push its petition, each made a request for official records of motor coach profits. Barrett had photostatic copies made of the company's statements for the last 10 years.

Barrett asked the commission last week to order an immediate cut to a 7 cent bus fare, and Douglas suggested an immediate slash to a rate of three rides for a quarter.

A ruling on these requests will be made Aug. 13. At that time the commission can either order a temporary fare reduction, pending a final decision in the case, or it can leave the fares at the present level and instruct the city and other parties to present their evidence at hearings. The state law empowers the commission to order a temporary rate slash when it finds on the basis of a utility concern's own reports that it is earning more than a "fair return."

Sings on W-G-N

Joan Merrill as she sang last night on W-G-N.

Circus comedy came to W-G-N last night in the form of three aerial jokesters who swung from joke to joke in "The Affairs of Tom, Dick, and Harry." The show is broadcast over W-G-N and a coast to Coast Mutual network each Monday from 9:30 to 10 p. m.

One of the funniest portions of the broadcast was the trio's parody of a visit to sideshows and a whirlwind glance at a three-ring tent performance. With the boys in their fun fest was Joan Merrill, songstress who is appearing at the Rhumba Casino. Miss Merrill sang "How Did He Look?" and "It's Delightful to Be Married."

"The Affairs of Tom, Dick, and Harry" is produced under the direction of William A. Bacher.

HAROLD TEEN'S FILM VENTURE ON AIR TONIGHT

Care-free humor will reign tonight when the latest adventures of Harold Teen and his fun-loving, trouble-finding adolescent friends are described over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 7:30 to 8 p. m. Teen, a figure made famous by the Tribune comic strip of the same name, has decided to produce epic motion pictures. The complications which beset his endeavors will be the subject of tonight's broadcast.

Beryl Vaughan

One of the rôles Teen has decided to cast into his movies is that of Cynthia, a typical vamp. Beryl Vaughan, the actress who will take the siren rôle, feels at home in any part that has to do with motion picture productions. One of Hollywood's most promising starlets, Miss Vaughan has acted in numerous supporting rôles for RKO and Columbia pictures.

"Harold Teen" is produced by Blair Walliser. Charles Flynn plays the title role.

OLD MEMORIES COME ALIVE AS PIONEERS MEET

Recall City's Early Days at Annual Picnic.

Three hundred old men and women wandered under the elm trees in Harms park, Berteau and Western avenues, yesterday. Most of their faces were taut with age and their steps unsteady, but they brought with them memories of slim young girls in hoops and bustles and stalwart young men in Union blue.

It was the 67th annual Old Settlers picnic sponsored by the Chicago Turngemeinde [Turners] for some of the men and women who turned Chicago from a muddy prairie into a city of piercing towers and broad, bustling boulevards.

William Harding Spiking, 6345 Leona avenue, 93 years old, sat in the shade and pulled on his old-fashioned, drooping mustache.

Farm on Pulaski Road.

"You know that family of mine made me up and move last year and it was a durn shame," he drawled. "I lived at 4853 North Pulaski road from the day I was born in 1848. Course the property was a farm in the early days. I can remember the time when bears and deer roamed around it. There was an Indian camp a block from our house when I was a boy. Every time my dad passed their tepees, they used to make him smoke a peace pipe. He sure hated that tobacco."

In another corner of the park, Mrs. Emily Lyons, 75, of 2643 Lake street, and Mrs. August Breit, 64, of 6979 Ridge avenue, strolled around in bustles and plumed bonnets. A bird-like, tiny old lady approached them. She was Mrs. Sarah Donahue, 91, of 4741 North Kenneth avenue. "I always liked the bustle style," she announced, "but I liked the hoops better.

"I remember how I used to hide my hoop skirts from my father. He didn't like them. He thought they were skittish. I'll never forget the night I went to a dance. I jumped down from a wagon and caught my hoop on a knob on the side. I swung back and forth like a pendulum until my brother picked me down. My escort was too embarrassed to do it."

Dance to Old Waltzes.

In the pavilion, a robust German band played all the old waltzes and a score of couples danced.

Medals were awarded to Henry Traffley, 87, of 2460 Winona street, the oldest settler present who has continuously resided in Chicago and Cook county for 87, the greatest number of years; Mrs. Katherine Kirscher, 89, of 6632 South Oakley avenue, the oldest woman settler who has continuously resided in the city and county for 86, the greatest number of years; Ivar Hjelmquist, 6318 North Western avenue, the old settler longest in employ of one company in Chicago still employed, and Mrs. Clara G. Bartz, 1731 Huron street, who has resided for 69 years at the same address, the longest of any continual residence.

Other medals were given to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Leindecker, 6541 South Sangamon street, whose combined ages, 170, were the greatest in the park; Henry Poedtke, 3735 North Spaulding avenue, for having the nine children and 23 grandchildren and three great grandchildren, and W. J. Palmer, 84, of 8942 Exchange avenue, the oldest pensioner.

Miss Louise D. Sherman to Be October Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY'S most interesting romantic news comes from Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sherman of Winnetka, who are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Louise Dickinson, to Capt. Philip M. Watrous, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Watrous of Chicago.

Capt. Watrous is stationed with the 124th Field artillery at Camp Forrest, Tenn. While his regiment is on maneuvers this month and next thru the southwest Miss Sherman will be trousseau shopping for their wedding, which is set tentatively for early October.

Miss Sherman attended the North Shore Country Day school and studied for two years at Vassar college. She spent a year abroad and attended the Sorbonne. At a tea at the Indian Hill club she and her sister, Eleanor, now Mrs. Robert K. Vincent of Chicago, were presented to society.

Capt. Watrous was graduated from the University of Chicago. Before going to Camp Forrest he attended the artillery school at Fort Sill for three months.

Draft Board Interferes with Wedding Plans.

The draft board, which has played havoc all year with wedding plans, has taken a particularly heavy toll from the bridal party of Miss Margaret Curry Chaplin and Richard Lake Merrick, who are to be married on Saturday in Christ church, Easton, Md. Mr. Merrick has changed his list of ushers several times, and even now expects to make a last-minute substitution or two.

As the list stands now his ushers are Robert Vogts and Henry Wood of Evanston, Fred Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., William Stack of East Lansing, Mich., Philip Gilbert of New York, Martin Davey of Kent, O., James Voorhees of New Haven, Conn., Melchior Jennings of Sewickley, Pa., Evans Taylor and James Arensberg. George Merrick, who departed for Easton yesterday with his two sisters, Margaret and Jane, will be his brother's best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Merrick are leaving Evanston tomorrow for Maryland. Their oldest daughter, Mrs. Gilbert [Nancy Merrick], will be matron of honor. The bride will have her sister, Kitty, as maid of honor. Also in the bridal party will be Miss Elizabeth Spear, Miss Grace Wilford, Miss Sarah Grace, Mrs. Richard Vaughan, Mrs. Arensberg, Miss Elizabeth Gunzenhauser, and Miss June Smith.

Reception and Dinner to Follow Ceremony.

After the 5:30 o'clock ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. William Craig Chaplin will give a reception in their home, Ellenborough, with a bridal dinner following. Mr. Merrick and his bride will take a wedding trip thru northern New England before going to Cambridge, Mass., to reside.

Among the guests at the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. George A. Paddock of Evanston and Washington, D. C., Charles Folds of Evanston, and Mrs. Merrick's sister and niece, Mrs. Roger L. Foote and Miss Sally Foote of Charlottesville, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban F. Myers of Cary, Ill., formerly of the South Shore, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Charles B. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Rogers of Lake Forest. Miss Myers was graduated from the University of Chicago. Her fiancé received his degree from Princeton university in 1936 and took a year of graduate work at Northwestern.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams have arrived in New York from France and are staying at the St. Regis hotel. Their future plans are indefinite, but the former American consul at Biarritz and Mrs. McWilliams undoubtedly will be coming to Lake Forest for a visit with their sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, and all of their old friends.

Chicagoans Are Motoring to Berkshire Festival.

Mrs. James O. Hinkley, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, and Mrs. Keene Addington are setting off next Wednesday for a motor trip to the Berkshires, where they will spend 10 days with Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury at Tor court. They will be there for the second series of the nine concerts in the 8th annual Berkshire Symphonic festival at Tanglewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Butz are other Chicagoans who plan to attend some of the concerts at Tanglewood. They will stop there on their way to Cape Cod.

Mrs. Edward A. Smith of Highland Park has taken a house at Duxbury, Mass., where she will remain until the first of October.

The John D. Farringtons and their daughter, Miss Dorothy, are on a holiday at Nantucket, where their son, John Jr., who has been at camp in New York, joined them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sanger Hinchman and their two sons, John and David, departed Friday for Phelps, Wis., where they have taken a summer place until Aug. 29.

Brier Stoller, who came to Chicago last year to sing at a Grant park concert, has returned to sing again tonight. A daughter of the William Van Doren Wrights, former Chicagoans, the former Brier Wright is the wife of Alexander Stoller, sculptor, and a sister of R. Stephens Wright, who is in Lake Forest painting portraits.

"It was wonderful," he wrote Publisher Bennett Cerf, "to sit all evening at the feet of two of the greatest living authors in your Modern Library—and listen to Ruth Gordon talk!"

* *

If you've ever heard Ruth Gordon talk, you would realize that it is indeed wonderful, despite the satire of Behrman's quip. Miss Gordon is talkative, and the candor of her talk in faintly juvenile accents, combined with her shrewd and witty mind, make listening to her a fascinating experience.

Fall bombs on Chungking.

A Coloradoan Speaks Up.

This column had a story about Deadwood, S. D., the other day and unwittingly typed "Leadville" instead of "Deadwood," thus ruining the story. Several protests were registered by readers, one of them by ex-Coloradoan Elmo Scott Watson, of the Medill School of Journalism.

"Leadville is in Colorado and it doesn't need to borrow any such picturesque characters as Calamity Jane, Wild Bill Hickok and Deadwood Dick, who lived and flourished in Deadwood, to add to its gaudy past," writes Mr. Watson. He lists some of Leadville's colorful figures:

Haw [Horace A. W.] Tabor, the bonanza king, with his $700 embroidered silk nightshirts and his career as a United States senator for 30 days.

Baby Doe McCourt, the glamorous Leadville dancing gal whom he married in the Willard hotel in Washington with President Chester Alan Arthur, numerous foreign diplomats and assorted congressmen and senators attending the wedding. [Baby Doe froze to death in a shack near the Matchless mine in 1936—the mine, long since worthless, was all that she had left of the fortune that had once been hers.

Silver Dollar Echo Tabor, their daughter, who became the belle of Denver society in the 80s and died destitute in Chicago in 1925.

Col. Joe Willard, grandson of the founder of the Willard hotel, who made—and lost—three fortunes in Leadville.

Faro Bill, the gambler, who turned gospel shark when the "boss mouthpiece of the heavenly mills" was called to Denver and preached a sermon which is still a legend in Leadville.

Pap Wyman, the chairman of the vigilantes who called a meeting and jammed thru this resolution: "Be it resolved that the Lord's Ten Commandments [plus one extra] shall constitute the laws of Leadville until we find time to improve on them." The "one extra" was suggested by Texas Jack. It was: "Thou shalt not jump thy neighbor's claim."

Then there was the "mystery woman" who appeared in Leadville one day in 1881 and seemed unusually interested in the newspaper accounts of the assassination of President James A. Garfield. She had a reason for being interested. It turned out that she was the wife of Charles Guiteau.

Giddy Fashions Out; New Vogue to Be Practical

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

The giddy generation is gone.

This was the news at the 1941 fall and winter style preview staged at the Merchandise Mart yesterday. The preview heralded the clinics of the Women's, Children's and Infants' Wear and Accessories market which will be held today and tomorrow in the Mart. The market opened July 28 and will close Saturday.

No longer will girls of the high school set copy their mothers' filmy hose and clinging silhouette. Practicality is at its peak this season and clothes, like the nation, must be ready for any emergency.

There are tweed, roughneck coats that teen-age girls may throw in a heap on the baseball field without fear of wrinkles or soil. Long cotton stockings will be the rage but they must be bold in bright reds, greens and blues. That skeleton in the style closet, red flannel underwear, has emerged triumphant for sports wear. The trend is simplicity with a vengeance.

One youngster's beige tweed coat exhibited yesterday typified the mode. Designed on box-like lines, it boasted a lining of the same material which can be zipped out for light weather wear. The lining, a little shadow of the coat, has sleeves of chamois for extra warmth.

Typical of the independent style, sister will not let the boy next door carry her books home this autumn. If yesterday's story is true, she will be wearing a little camel's hair coat, a twin to brother's balmacaan topcoat, which has a great pocket in its gay, plaid lining for her books.

Grownup sister will be equally practical in a gray, jersey two-piece frock whose full, unpliated skirt will be perfect grooming. The dress, whose snug bodice falls to a long waist line, is demurely trimmed in a tiny, white piqué, choir-boy collar, slender cuffs and shiny metal buttons. Its name might well be "Common Sense."

For the woman who does not know whether her escort will be wearing a business suit or a uniform for her dinner date, there is the perfect street-length black dinner dress. Slender to a point of deceptiveness, the skirt hides two soft, inverted plaits which fall from the fashionable long waistline. Slender, long sleeves and soft bodice fullness are heightened by a deep yoke of seed-bead trim for elegance.

Finally, to top every garment there is the ideal fur coat, which fits into most budgets with smooth salesmanship. It is a beautiful, dark-dyed muskrat which imitates the expensive mink coat with flawless mimicry. Created of drop skins, the mink technic, it has a soft back fullness, wide sleeves and will wear well for years. It is, like most of the season's crop, practically perfect and perfectly practical.

Movie Version of Boothe Play Has Its Moments

BY CECIL SMITH.

Playgoers who saw "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" on the stage a couple of years ago will not recognize more than a few lines and one or two situations in the cinema version of Clare Boothe's comedy, and certainly they will not find any of the political satire Miss Boothe claimed her play was intended to have.

The present plot centers around a moderately agreeable fraud perpetrated by Mary Martin, who appears as a southern girl named Cindy Lou Bethany. Poor Cindy Lou has come to New York to try to make her way on the stage, but, as so often seems to be the case, every New York producer is completely blind to her charms—which, to this reporter, are exceptional in every regard.

A producer [James Cowan] and a director [Don Ameche] are getting ready—with the wise cracking assistance of Oscar Levant, the musical wonder boy—to stage some sort of southern musical comedy. Myra Stanhope [Barbara Allen], a well known actress, was scheduled to have the lead, but she has gone upstage on the producer and the director, and they are forced hastily to find a substitute.

Mr. Ameche and Mr. Levant head southward, to scour the countryside for a suitable heroine. Miss Martin, getting wind of their plans, rushes off to her ancestral manse in the south, traps Mr. Ameche and Mr. Levant into hearing her sing, and soon finds herself on the train for New York.

It would be simple if all the complications ended at this point, but instead they are just beginning. Everybody gets irritated with everybody else in sight, from the very moment Miss Martin makes her pictorial entrance upon a Long Island estate, and before you know it Miss Martin has butted Miss Allen right into the swimming pool. And we'll leave her right there, allowing you to discover how the various psychological snarls are unsnarled, particularly between Mr. Ameche and Miss Martin.

It is an unmixed pleasure to look at Miss Martin, and what is more, she acts extremely well, with a southern accent you could not cut without a very sharp knife, and she sings charmingly. She also does a striptease, which by now has become the least interesting of her accomplishments.

I should speak of Mr. Ameche, but there is nothing to say about him beyond the fact that he is there. The rest of the cast was selected by a prodigal hand. Connie Boswell sings delightfully a song about "Sand in Your Shoes," which inspires Rochester to a hoarse reprise and an amusing bit of eccentric dancing. Mr. Levant does some mean things with "Dixie" on the harpsichord.

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye" is sometimes slow and always foolishly organized, but I think you will succeed in having a good time watching it.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

One of the most interesting of all treatment lines for the woefully, stubbornly dry skin has sort of sneaked into the cosmetic picture by the back door. One of the largest manufacturers of woolen goods has decided that if any one could do a job with lanolin as a beauty aid he could! And he's doing it.

As you may or may not know, lanolin is a time honored skin lubricant. It approximates the natural skin oil pretty closely and its application does wonders in restoring softness to skin that has been depleted of oil for one reason or another.

Because lanolin is a by-product of the wool scouring process, these woolen manufacturers extract tremendous quantities of it. After a good bit of research the concern has created a whole family of lanolin products containing, we're told, more of the lubricant than most similar items. There's a pure lanolin in tube form, a couple of creams, and a superfatted soap that every dry skinned woman has dreamed of.

One of these creams does triple duty as a cleanser, a lubricant, and as a powder base. It is just about ideal. It's white, creamy, delicately scented, and it does wonders for the thin, parched kind of skin. The other cream, for massage, is even richer.

These things are simply packaged and quite reasonably priced.

SYNOPSIS.

Kathleen Murray inherits an income and a home in an actor's colony in California. She goes there to live and falls in love with Hugo Lang, whose play is being produced in the local summer theater. Hugo is also in love with her, but tells her he cannot marry her until he has made enough money for them to live on without having to use Kathleen's. A rich girl, Carol Keyes, is backing his production and insists that she and her current infatuation, Maurice Reed, play the lead rôles. Hugo's foster mother, Ellen Mount; Jeanie Payson, daughter of the local hotel keeper, and Toby Allen, Kathleen's 16 year old protégé, have minor rôles. The theme of the drama is murder, and tho it holds the audience tensely, Kathleen has an uncomfortable presentiment when Wilkie Dickas, another member of the colony, discusses the fascinations of killing. Kathleen feels that Ellen Mount does not like her. Kathleen and Hugo are talking about the mother-in-law and financial obstacles to their marriage when Jeanie comes up and insists that she speak to Hugo alone. They drive off together, and early the next morning Jeanie is found murdered in the woods and Hugo has disappeared. He is found in a secluded cabin and is arrested for murder. Kathleen hires George Cassell, a New York attorney, to defend him. At the trial Hugo refuses to talk, and the prosecution tries to prove Hugo had an affair with Jeanie and killed her because he wanted to marry Kathleen for her money. The verdict is guilty and he is sentenced to life imprisonment. In spite of Cassell telling Kathleen he really thinks Hugo is guilty, Kathleen believes him innocent.

INSTALMENT XX.
GRANDMA'S LETTER.

George took a cigaret from the box on the table. Kathleen watched the play of his beautifully manicured fingers. Everything about George was prosperous, well cared for, meticulously correct. She could not imagine him with ruffled hair, a shirt open at the neck, and old gray trousers. He ignored or did not notice her quiet sarcasm.

Kathleen's hand shook and her coffee spilled over.

"You'll be telling me next it's true Hugo wanted me for my money."

"It is true. You might as well face it."

"So you, too, are my enemy."

"That's unfair. Only for you would I have made an exhibition of myself conducting a hopeless case. When you can see things in their true proportion you'll see the clear outlines of this sordid, commonplace story."

"You forget it was established that the girl herself was an heiress, too."

"So what? Heiress to an elderly man not much past middle age and patently in vigorous health. He could change his will for another whim. He might live 30 to 40 years. Whereas, you——"

"That's enough, George. Don't say any more. I don't blame you for thinking what you think. I know Hugo and you don't——"

"How long have you known him? A matter of weeks."

"It isn't how long you know a person, George. It's how deep." Memory stabbed her uncomfortably. She pushed her chair back from the table. "Let's go into the other room."

He followed her slight, graceful figure into the big gray and yellow living room, fragrant with bowls of yellow roses. Kathleen had a talent for gracious living. Even her small city bed-sitting room had had the intimate charm of a home.

George sat down in one of the deep chairs. "Too bad, really, you'll have to leave this house."

Kathleen stared at him in surprise.

"Leave it? Why?"

"Well, you can't stay on here, can you? At least you could but it wouldn't be pleasant. I suggest you should sell the place."

"O, no. I love it. I actually love it—the very stones of it, the garden, this room, the heavenly view up the lake. My grandmother lived here. She brought me up. O, no, I couldn't sell it to somebody strange—after the way I've fallen in love with the house."

She stood now in one of the long French windows open onto the veranda. The lake shone like gunmetal under the darkling sky and the still trees on the shore seemed fashioned of darkness. Above the bare mountain top glowed the radiance of the rising moon. The air smelt of earth and water.

"Come and look," she added. "Don't you see why I love it? After those steamy summer nights in New York?"

George followed her out onto the veranda. "It's beautiful regarded as scenery. But its associations, Kathleen! Frankly, I wouldn't be able to stand the place."

"That's because of your belief. You must remember mine is different."

George leaned over the rail beside her, so near that he almost touched her.

"Kathleen, I hate to see you ruin your life. Loyalty is right when it's justified—but this is pure obstinacy."

"My life is my own affair."

"I want to make it mine, Kathleen. You know that."

"We settled this long ago."

"You mean you said no. But you must admit I asked you long before I knew you were going to be a rich girl on your grandmother's money. I loved you then. I love you now—more than ever."

"Thank you, George. I only wish I could feel the way you want me to feel. I only wish life could be so simple."

He put his hands on hers on the rail, warm, hard and protective.

"This is an obsession, Kathleen. You see, I know your nature. You feel you must make the gesture of standing by your friend. You feel he has no one else, because you suspect, as I do, that he is not deceiving his mother. Don't contradict. I know. But is your heart really involved?"

Kathleen looked at the reflected evening star shining serenely from the lake. Her love was that submerged light. Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it. She gently released her hands.

"I'm sorry, George. Love is an inexplicable thing. I admire you and respect you. I always have. And I trust you. That's why I sent for you to help me. But I can't love you the way you want me to——"

"I've talked to you too soon, Kathleen. I've no tact. Perhaps later, when—— Anyhow, don't say a definite no."

His voice was low and pleading, and the humility of his attitude touched her profoundly. It was so unlike his normal self-assurance, his high authoritative pride. Her own lonely longing understood his and filled her with pity.

"I can't let you hope, George. I know my own heart so surely. It wouldn't be fair."

"Then I'll go, dear. I'll get back to the hotel and take the early morning plane to New York."

"George, I'm so sorry."

"Don't speak of it any more. It isn't your fault." He turned abruptly from the rail and went into the house. Kathleen followed him and went with him to the front door.

"Take the car," she said, "and leave it in the hotel garage. Toby can go in on the bus in the morning and bring it back."

"Thanks, Kathleen."

She went down into the drive and watched him get in.

"Send for me if you need me—or if anything unforeseen turns up."

"Yes, George, I certainly will."

She gave him her hand in farewell before he drove off. He pressed it tightly. She had never seen him so moved.

"I wish I could have been some real help."

"You were, George. You were——"

She had an impulse to call him back as she watched the car pause before turning out of the gate, but she did not. She went back into the house feeling abysmally alone. She was sitting at the magazine table in the living room with her head down on her arms when Toby went in and found her there. He drew up a chair and sat beside her.

"Don't cry, Kathleen. You'll make yourself sick."

She lifted her face, wan but dry-eyed. "I can't cry, Toby. But I'm just so desolate—so unbelievably tired. I felt as if a strong prop had gone from under me when George had gone."

"You've still got me, Kathleen."

She had to smile at him. He looked so uselessly young, and yet so deeply concerned and earnest.

"I know, Toby. I hadn't forgotten."

"And you've got me, too," said Susan from the doorway. "Seems you've still got your grandmother, also. I found another of them notes while I was sorting the fresh linen."

Kathleen held out her hand eagerly. "O, Susan, bring it to me."

She smoothed out the deeply creased note on the table. It smelled of the lavender sachets packed between the sheets.

Kathleen, child, I was thinking of you while I put this stuff away this morning. You're a headstrong lass and quick in your judgments. Watch yourself for a twist on the subject of money.

Don't get suspicious of decent human beings who come around you. It's not difficult to like you for yourself.

What I mean is, don't judge by appearances. They lie to you—O, dearie me, how they do lie. Bless you, my dear. Grandma.

Universal day—Get an early start. Make every minute count.

How to use your chart—If you see by your chart that you are in a six-month but you are in a five-year, the advice for the year will suggest that you have complete personal freedom and can make changes, while the month will say you have to assume responsibility, give service to others and adjust yourself to others. So you can see that that particular month will not be as free as some of the others and you guide yourself accordingly by not selecting that month in which to make your complete changes. The six-days marked in your chart for that month will be more important than some of the other days for it is on those days that you can follow out your numbers by doing things for others and making yourself more adjustable to circumstances. These would not be days to assert yourself or seek personal pleasure.

Write Sally if You're Eager to See Marx Film

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

"The Big Store," which 100 fortunate boys and girls will see at the Roosevelt theater at our next party, has everything to make it just the sort of picture youngsters enjoy.

Groucho Marx plays detective in the disguise of a floorwalker in a big department store. Harpo, as one of his assistants, runs around putting handcuffs on all the wrong people, and Chico is up to his old trick of "shooting" the piano keys. The film has lots of music in it, supplied by two of the Marx brothers, Tony Martin, and a children's orchestra and choir.

My guests will see this picture with me on Aug. 14, and it's going to be one of the best parties of the year. If you want very, very much to come, sit right down and write a letter telling me all about it. I'm looking for children to whom this party will be a special treat. If you're one of those, be sure to let me know about it before next Thursday.

I'm going to select my guests that day, and they'll be the boys and girls who write the best letters telling me why they'd like an invitation.

Be sure to include your full name, address, and age in your letter, because if you don't include these items, you can't possibly be a winner.

None of these things should be a bit hard for any wide awake boy or girl to remember, so don't wait too long before mailing your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Are you spending too much money for food? Is it necessary to cut down your eating expenses? Don't sacrifice good nutrition to do it. Pare the budget by planning carefully, buying wisely, using leftovers, and get the coöperation of your family in thrifty, healthful food habits. Food dislikes and finickiness about eating complicate the business of saving menu pennies right at the start.

WAYS TO SAVE MONEY ON FOOD.

1. Plan meals carefully, a week at a time, considering seasonable foods and week-end bargains. You'll find our Friday week-end marketing column a help in picking reasonable supplies for the week, I think. Menus might be made out with this column as a guide.

2. Go to market in person in order to select best quality, take advantage of unadvertised bargains, and obtain menu-making ideas.

3. Use margarine and evaporated milk in cooking, when savings may be effected, butter and fluid milk for the table.

4. Buy economy cuts of meat, which are just as nutritious as the expensive cuts. You'll find wonderful variety. Among usually bargain priced meats are these: Sausages, tongues, kidneys, heart and other specialties, corned beef, beef neck, shank, plate, brisket, short ribs, veal shoulder, breast, foreshank, riblets, pork neck, fresh ham hocks, cured ham shanks, salt pork, lamb shanks, breast, riblets, neck and shoulder. These are some of the very lowest cost meats. There's much greater variety at a few more cents per pound. Interested readers may have our list of low and moderate cost meat cuts in return for the usual stamped, self addressed envelope.

5. Use plenty of whole grain cereals for breakfast foods [inexpensive sources of good nutrition] and serve dried peas, beans, and soy beans frequently.

6. Canned tomatoes are an inexpensive source of vitamin C and should be used freely.

7. Remember that sweet, rich foods aren't necessary for health, and usually are expensive, so make desserts as simple as possible. Fresh, canned, or dried fruit is about the best dessert there is. Simple puddings also are good. Small amounts of sweet things make meals more palatable, but the really important foods are the milk, eggs, whole cereals, fruits, and vegetables.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Gorman, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Gorman of Oak Park, to Joseph Ward Leahy, son of Mrs. Mary B. Leahy of North Mason avenue, took place on Saturday in St. Catherine of Siena church in Oak Park. The wedding mass was celebrated by the Rev. James J. Leahy of Notre Dame, Ind., a brother of the bridegroom, and the bride's brother, the Rev. Thomas Gorman, performed the ceremony. Five other brothers of the bridegroom served as ushers. After a wedding trip to New Orleans and a Caribean cruise. Mr. Leahy and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Fashions for School Days

CHILDREN'S FALL FASHIONS.

In just less than a month the school bells will be beckoning reluctant and eager schoolgirls alike to enter another year in the classroom. It's none too early now for mothers to begin assembling the practical wardrobe necessary. Today's two patterns offer a pair of smart school fashions which are easy on the budget and will meet with enthusiastic approval of the youthful wearers. Both woolens and crêpes may be employed.

Style No. 2789 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14.

Style No. 3401 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 4. — The movies, in their quest for the real thing in locations, range the world—but by all odds the favorite spot is Lake Sherwood, about 45 miles from Hollywood and the most versatile piece of territory on the face of the globe.

Current or recent locations have been in the Bahamas, Florida, Utah, New Mexico, Lake Tahoe, and Catalina Island; the Lone Pine country is frequently used for westerns, and the studio owned ranches in the hot San Fernando valley are steadily employed. But Lake Sherwood and the surrounding hidden valley top any single place for film work. It is estimated that 1,000 pictures have been made there.

At the moment, Lake Sherwood and its shores are serving simultaneously as the Island of Corsica, Rudyard Kipling's jungle and Georgia's Okefeenokee swamp. Here Doug Fairbanks Jr. is playing a dual rôle in Dumas' "The Corsican Brothers," and giving battle to such arch-fiends as Akim Tamiroff and John Emery. Here Sabu is palsy walsy with panthers and pythons, making "The Jungle Book." Here Walter Brennan, Walter Huston, John Carradine, and Dana Andrews are living in a swamp-side shack village for "Swamp Water."

Liveliest of the locations is "The Corsican Brothers," for two reasons: It involves mass fighting between horsemen and castle retainers, and it is directed by sputtery, voluble Gregory Ratoff. Ratoff is a bang-bang director. The original shooting schedule for the picture set by Producer Edward Small was 56 days; Ratoff allowed he could knock it off in 30. At the moment of writing he's ahead of his own schedule.

I was lucky to catch his big battle before the castle walls. A couple of hundred peasants, dancers, and bandit horsemen mixed it up, but good. First, an assistant director told over a P. A. system what the action was to be: Horsemen to ride on a fiesta and shoot and slash. Then there was a rehearsal.

"That," said Ratoff, "was perfect what I don't want. You men afoot are defending the castle and some of you ran away. If you run away, the picture goes right in the window."

So there was another rehearsal and this went fine. Two men got stepped on by horses, but no bones were broken. Then a tank wagon came up and the big, dusty battleground was watered down. Next came the take and it was perfect what Ratoff did want. Again the fight was repeated, for different camera angles. Doubles for Tamiroff and Emery, the villains, were used, for there's no sense in a principal getting hurt.

Fairbanks wasn't working, because he had just been born Siamese twins. In the castle raid everybody is massacred except the twins and the doc who smuggles them out and later separates them, so that one can grow up bad and the other good. . . . Tamiroff and Emery will work in close-ups. Tamiroff has been taking fencing lessons for two weeks, so that Fairbanks can kill him when he grows up. "It's an art, fencing," says Akim. "It's more difficult than surgery. Once I studied surgery for a month, for a picture; fencing is worse."

Location work is fun only for visitors. Director Zoltan Korda and Sabu are already exhausted by three weeks of dawn-to-dusk labor; sometimes it's dawn-to-midnight. And they have several weeks to go, for all of "Jungle Book" is being shot at Lake Sherwood. Ratoff and company will be at the lake only a week, but it will be a gruelling one because of the daily round trip from Hollywood.

Here is the Lord's Prayer used as an embroidered sampler, suitably illustrated with various interpretations of the Ten Commandments. It is an attractive design measuring approximately 15 by 19 inches when completed. The hot iron transfer pattern includes detailed instructions for the embroidery work.

Plan Day Trip with Children Now and Then

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

If you have children, plus only a little enterprise but a great deal of play spirit, you can together get a great deal of refreshment [and health] out of trips that last just for the day. With good planning as to the place you are going to, and also as to preparations those days' trips can add up to a vacation, if it isn't possible for your whole family to go away to the country or shore to stay for several weeks.

When you have a car, you don't have the fatigue of travel for the children to consider. You don't have to have a brainstorm deciding whether you'd better take sweaters for all and leave coats behind, and whether the steamer rug would be best if the sand happens to be damp, or if perhaps just the beach towels will do, and whether one of you could engineer the big umbrella for the baby's nap. The same holds true with food. Big picnic baskets and thermos jars and eating utensils don't have to be weighed [literally] in the balance if all you have to do is to pile everything into the car and whiz off.

But if you're going by ordinary vehicle or boat, you must be more efficient. Here are a few suggestions:

Wherever you go, start early, making as many of the preparations the night before as possible.

Plan your objective with the endurance of your youngest children in mind. When you can, occasionally leave them and go on a different sort of jaunt with the older ones.

Begin to pack up and start home before the children get so tired that they are cross or the homeward trek is nothing but a burden.

No matter how hot the day when you start, take a wrap of some sort for the cool of the evening or for slipping on after swimming.

In packing the food, work out a system whereby you can throw away some of the eating or carrying utensils.

If the picnic spot is a familiar one, you may know where you could buy the children's milk, or supplement your cold food with bowls of hot soup. Of course, if you're going where you can build a fire, nothing is more digestible or more fun than a simple meal cooked outdoors.

Experience in days' jaunting will provide you with other practical precautions.

Darker Colors Are Decreed for Fall Hose

BY REA SEEGER.

The fall fashion shadow across the ankielines is much darker than the summer tones. Ruddier shades of copper, deep shades of brown, green, and even wine are star features in nylon. The neutral all-purpose colors to wear with daytime clothes and suits have already made their appearance. Because the footgear is sootier in black, darker than ever on brown, and because of the handsome new colors, such as green, bronze, dark red, and tan bark, pumps, oxfords, and walking shoes need the huskier colors for the right contrast.

Dress parade hosiery, just in time for the first fall parties and new dinner clothes, boasts the newest embellishment. Down each ride are delicate lace clox, painted floral designs on the exposed toe section, or the long vine like designs also in color instead of the lacy clox.

The newest excitement is the embroidered design like a floral bracelet that goes around the ankle. This is especially dainty and feminine. They look like the beautiful embroidered clox on French stockings long before the war.

Black heels are going strong. They are magic devices with the fine black back seam that achieve slender outlines. You will find the sooty black heels on these new dark fall hosiery shades, and that time tested shade called Peter Pan is back again for a welcome. Every one knows how flattering such a tone is with all colors.

Be Objective in Seeking Solution to Your Problems

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

The long view is useful, not only in romantic difficulties, but in any perplexity that may arise. If you will exert a little imagination, here is a good psychological trick that may prove helpful.

Don't ask your friend for advice. Pretend your difficulty belongs to some one else and he comes to you for suggestions. Visualize him sitting down opposite you and stating your case as his. Then tell him what to do, and you will find the advice you give him will be perfect for yourself.

Here's another way to get the same detachment on your lovers' quarrel, family problems, or in-law troubles. Use the third instead of the first person in thinking over your grievances. Instead of telling yourself "I was this or that or the other," phrase it as "she was hurt," "she was angry," "she was treated very badly." Before you know it you will be saying "how foolish she was to be hurt," "how useless for her to be angry," and "if she didn't like the way she was treated, why did she put up with it?" A man, of course, would say "he" instead of "I."

Whenever you are in a hopeless quandary, a bog of emotional uncertainty, assume the rôle of observer. Stand off and look at the situation. Stand off and take a good look at yourself. It will take effort, but immediately your thoughts will be clearer. You will be better able to think wisely. You will be able to see a way out of your trouble and follow it with new courage, serenity, and hope.

Rains Come to Grant Park, but Band Plays on

BY EDWARD BARRY.

It seemed like old times last night, sitting in front of the Grant park band shell in the cool rain. There has been little of this sort of thing this year. Last summer we used to have a nice cloudburst every other evening.

Hans Lange and the Chicago Symphony orchestra were busy with Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony when the rain came. The audience was undismayed, and simply raised umbrellas or put on Martian costumes made of newspapers. Anyway, to have left the concert then would have been like canceling a magazine subscription right in the middle of a good serial, for this performance of the symphony had a cumulative power that made one want to see it thru.

Right at the beginning Mr. Lange had succeeded in establishing a strong musical and emotional momentum. The sturdy and action-filled first movement demanded the contemplative second. The light-footed but still grave scherzo made way logically for the powerful summing up of the final allegro.

All this happened after the intermission. In the first half of the program Mr. Lange used Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas" overture to get his latecomers seated, then placed in close juxtaposition three attractive pieces which contrasted violently with one another in genesis and character.

First there was Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," played with a fine regard for its hair thin melodic lines and its general air of balance and repose. After so cleanly built a work Debussey's prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun" seemed even more misty and amorphous than usual.

From that we were plunged immediately into Wagner's stress filled "Tristan and Isolde." The first and last notes of the score—the "Prelude and the Love Death"—summarized the psychological aspects of the story as effectively as they can be summarized in 15 minutes.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The best players agree that in duplicate bridge, third and even fourth hand bids may be "shaded." This sound philosophy has been so well promulgated that all duplicate players are familiar with it. This, unfortunately, is a mixed blessing, for I have yet to find any theory, however sound, that is not distorted or overemphasized at the hands of the public at large. Let us consider a typical shaded bid, its implications, and its outcome.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

I do not contend that the opening diamond bid was wholly responsible for the 800 point penalty that followed. North contributed by his silly runout from one no trump to two diamonds. With North's holding, when the double of one no trump evoked a penalty pass from West, any attempt at escape was just a shot in the dark. As it happened, two clubs would have been a better contract, and a far better bid, but even this would have been set 500 points, which is all that one no trump would have been penalized.

However, let us forget North's inept bidding to consider the opening bid itself. It has become quite the fashion in duplicate to open third hand, vulnerable or not, on a hand such as South's. This habit is to be deplored. True, South had two plus honor tricks, but his hand as a whole was so weak, his playing tricks so few, that any opening bid would automatically contract for a disproportionate number of tricks.

It is pretty good rule of thumb [even at duplicate] that any opening bid should have a clear prospect of at least four playing tricks.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cardinals, who think they are pennant bound, refused to be flagged down yesterday by the sixth place Cubs. The league leaders put their championship ideas on exhibition in Wrigley field for only a few minutes but even this brief time was sufficient for them to fashion a four run bomb, after which they proceeded to mop up until Ernie White, the sparkling left hander, had accomplished his 13th victory and 7th in a row. Incidentally the 4 to 2 score marked the 5th straight trimming for Jim Wilson's lads. The victory enabled St. Louis to maintain its game and a half lead over Brooklyn, which beat New York last night.

A Cub Pitcher Goes Route.

Paul Erickson, the Cubs' supersized rookie, happened to be the loser because of the four run cluster resulting from as many hits and a blunder by Lou Stringer in the third inning. But the Zion City youngster had his fun in other ways. For one thing he was the first of the Cub staff to go the route in 14 games. And he was exceedingly crafty with the strike out ball. He whiffed 10 of the slashing, wild running Cards, 3 of them in succession in the opening inning.

White, in addition to being stingy with base hits, also had a strikeout pitch of proportions. He dispatched eight enemy batters in that fashion, Bill Nicholson being a two time patron. But Bill finally singled in the eighth for his only safe clout in three games. Bill was one of three Cubs who reached first base in the last five innings, White apparently having put on a little extra power after Clyde McCullough and Lou Stringer had scared him into allowing a pair of runs in the fourth.

White Starts Big Rally.

White opened the third with a single to center and this was enough to convince the Cards their big moment had arrived. Eddie Lake walked and Terry Moore tried to sacrifice but forced White at third. Johnny Hopp singled over third and Lake scored. Johnny Mize spanked a single into left. Moore counting and Hopp taking third. Enos Slaughter hit what might have been a double play ball, but Stringer kicked the ball into short center, Hopp going home and Mize moving to third. He skipped in from there on Johnny Brown's single to center.

Stan Hack, with two singles, was the only Cub who didn't suffer from White's southpawing in the first three innings, but in the fourth a couple others escaped the monotony of putouts, the result being two runs. This development came after Dom Dallessandro and Nicholson had been retired. Babe Dahlgren walked and McCullough singled to left. Then Stringer aimed a double into the left field corner to drive in his two pals.

ILLINI TRUSTEES MEET TODAY TO PICK SPORT HEAD

The board of trustees of the University of Illinois, which has worked overtime in helping to solve the muddled athletic situation at the university, will have another session this morning at which time an acting director of athletics will be named.

Ten days ago the new athletic board made a recommendation to the trustees, which has been kept secret. Reports were persistent that Doug Mills, Illini basketball coach, is the man selected to succeed Wendell S. Wilson, ousted athletic director. Mills, like Wilson, played under Bob Zuppke, football coach. Mills was a member of the 1927-'28-'29 teams, which lost only two games during that span.

Several weeks ago the trustees acted to dismiss Wilson and retain Zuppke when the bitter feud between the two became public. Zuppke was retained for the 1941 season as football coach.

BROOKLYN WHIPS GIANTS, 11-6, ON 5 RUNS IN 7TH

Maintains Pace in Hot National League Race.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—The resourceful Brooklyn Dodgers bunched all their runs in three consecutive innings tonight to overwhelm the New York Giants, 11 to 6, before a crowd of 28,637 and stretch their current winning streak to five straight games.

The Giants tried desperately to snap the slump that had caused them to drop 11 out of 13 games on their western trip. They scored twice before Brooklyn got started. A walk, a stolen base, and Babe Young's double produced a run in the first inning, and, in the fourth, Young slammed his 13th homer of the year over the right field fence.

O'Dea Crashes One.

The Dodgers tied the score in the fifth on a single by Mickey Owen, a pinch double by Dixie Walker and a single by Bill Herman. In the sixth they took a four run lead on Walker's double with the bases loaded and a two base wild throw by Shortstop Billy Jurges.

This looked like the clincher until Ken O'Dea delivered a pinch homer with the bases filled for the Giants in the seventh to tie the score again.

But the Dodgers were equal to the occasion. They sent 10 men to bat in the seventh and scored five times. Jim Wasdell doubled two runners home, Pee Wee Reese singled for another, and Herman doubled for the final two.

Seven Pitchers in Action.

The Dodgers used three pitchers, with Curt Davis getting credit for the victory and the Giants used four, Ace Adams being charged with the loss. Score:

GOPHER CHAMPION LEADS WOMEN'S DERBY WITH 76

Mrs. Dansingburg Breaks Par at Medinah.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Hayes Dansingburg, a pleasant blonde lady from St. Paul, Minn., with an 8 year old daughter and a 6 year old son, not to mention a record of eight Minnesota state championships, yesterday went to the front in the 13th annual Derby of the Women's Western Golf association with a tidy 76, one under par for the No. 1 course of the Medinah Country club.

Mrs. Dansingburg, who was not exactly overlooked in the pretournament guessing, still was not expected to be up there ahead of such stars as Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, Phyllis Otto of Omaha, Neb., and least of all, the defending champion, Mrs. Frank Newell of Long Beach, Cal. Yet there she is, with a two stroke lead going into today's second 18 holes of the 72 hole medal play race that will continue with another round tomorrow and finish with the final 18 on Thursday.

Second Look at the Course.

Her feat was especially remarkable in that you don't go around every day in the week breaking par on Medinah's No. 1 lot, a course which has proved as baffling to most male competitors as the club's famed No. 3 layout. Add to this the fact that Mrs. Dansingburg had played the course only once before. That was on Sunday, just after she had alighted from the sleeper which brought her from her eighth straight Minnesota state tournament victory, earned in a 36 hole struggle last Saturday, in which she had to shoot a 74—78—152 to win, 1 up, from the talented Margaret Barry.

Two shots back of Mrs. Dansingburg at the end of the first day's running was Miss Wall, the Michigan miss who this year has verified her early promise by going to the final of two important Florida tournaments and then finishing as runner-up in the highly prized Trans-Mississippi tourney. Mary Agnes, who finished fourth in the Derby last year, made one of the best finishes the Derby ever has seen, a spurt of three consecutive birdies that gave her a 78.

Miss Williams Disqualified.

Next in line was Miss Ingram, who recently retired the Chicago Women's District Golf association championship trophy with her third capture of same. Virginia had a 38—43—81, one stroke better than the 82s submitted by Mrs. Newell and Miss Otto. Mrs. Newell, who, as Elizabeth Hicks, won the last two Derbies, including a record setting job in 1939, did well enough except for the 12th and 15th, on which she yielded an aggregate of four strokes to par.

Ellamae Williams of Bryn Mawr, thrice Illinois champion and twice a winner of the CWDGA crown, who was returning to competition after an illness, was the victim of an un-

White Sox Play Browns Under Lights Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4.—The White Sox arrived here late this afternoon for the longest St. Louis stay since the adoption of the two and three day series schedule some years ago. They will play a night game with the Browns tomorrow and single games Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

The Sox and Browns have played only eight games against each other and the Sox have won six. The St. Louisans have beaten each team in the league more than they have the Chicagoans and were pretty tough in their last home stand as well as at several intervals during the eastern trip just closed.

Johnny Rigney, treated rather roughly in Boston, New York and Philadelphia, will try for a comeback in tomorrow night's encounter. If he succeeds he will have nine victories as compared with nine defeats.

All-Star Coaches Will Be Heard on W-G-N Tomorrow

The five coaches who will direct the college All-Stars against the Chicago Bears Aug. 28 will be heard over W-G-N at 8:30 tomorrow evening. It will be a rebroadcast of a Mutual network program originating at 7:15 p. m. The broadcast will open in Chicago where Announcer Bob Elson will present Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE and director of the game, and Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern. The program then will shift to San Francisco where Orin Hollingbery, Pacific coast representative on the staff, will speak. From San Francisco the coaches' parade will move to Houston, Tex., for a three minute discussion between Fritz Crisler of Michigan and Homer Norton of Texas A. & M. The program will be concluded in New York with a talk by Carl Snavely of Cornell, head coach of the All-Stars.

BY ARCH WARD.

Carl V. Snavely of Cornell, one of intercollegiate football's most successful coaches, will lead the 1941 All-Stars against the Chicago Bears in Chicago's eighth annual charity game on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28.

Snavely will head a staff made up of Fritz Crisler of Michigan, Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, Homer Norton of Texas A. & M., and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State.

These famous gridiron instructors will be presented with a squad of 70 players, chosen by 9,514,753 fans in a coast to coast poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 264 newspaper and radio associates.

Bears Reach New Heights.

They will attempt in less than three weeks to accomplish what the brain and brawn of the National Football league were unable to effect last season—to stop the Bears and their explosive T formation with a man in motion. In their 73 to 0 victory over the Washington Redskins the Bears reached heights never before scaled by a professional team.

Arrayed against the All-Star coaching board will be George Halas, whose success with the Bears stamps him as one of football's most distinguished leaders; Clark Shaughnessy, who for several seasons has collaborated with Halas in the development of the T formation; Heartly Anderson, former head coach at Notre Dame and North Carolina State; Paddy Driscoll, former head coach at Marquette, and Luke Johnsos, former end at Northwestern university as well as with the Bears.

Snavely was born in Omaha, July 31, 1893, the son of a Virginia minister. He became interested in athletics as a boy and played football, basketball, and baseball at Lebanon Valley college, where he also turned in an honor scholastic record. He played two seasons of professional baseball in the New York-Pennsylvania league after graduation in 1915 with an A. B. degree.

Begins as Coach at Kiski.

Snavely began his coaching career at Kiski prep, but was forced to resign at the time of his marriage because of a school rule barring married faculty members. He then transferred to Vandergrift school in Pennsylvania and later coached at a Cincinnati high school and at the University of Cincinnati. During this span he taught mathematics, physics, chemistry, and rhetoric. Snavely went from Cincinnati to Marietta college and was recalled to Kiski when the ban on married faculty members was lifted. His Kiski eleven was undefeated in 1922.

Moving in 1923 to the position of head coach and athletic director at Bellefonte academy, Snavely in four years turned in a gridiron record of 34 victories, four defeats, and one tie. He became head coach at Bucknell university in 1927 and in his seven years there his teams won 42 games, lost 16, and tied 8. The head coach of the All-Stars declined a new three year contract at Bucknell to accept an invitation to become head coach at the University of North Carolina. Snavely's first team at North Carolina lost only one game and his 1935 eleven went thru to the season's finale before it was whipped by Duke, a defeat which probably cost the Tar Heels a bid to the Rose bowl.

Moves to Cornell in 1936.

Snavely moved to Cornell in the spring of 1936 as successor to Gil Dobie and his five year record at Ithaca includes 27 victories, 10 defeats, and 2 ties. His 1939 team was undefeated and his 1940 eleven won six and lost two.

Snavely is a total abstainer from alcohol and tobacco. He has a handicap of seven at the Ithaca Country club and he is in great demand as a speaker. He earned an A. M. degree at Bucknell and has completed most of the requirements for a Ph. D. at Penn State. Both he and Mrs. Snavely sang in a church choir while he was at Bucknell.

Snavely was the eastern representative on the 1939 All-Star staff, the year Elmer Layden of Notre Dame was head coach. He and Waldorf have collaborated in the development of the North team in the annual North-South game at Montgomery, Ala., the last few years.

All members of the staff will be at Northwestern not later than noon Sunday. There will be a workout in Dyche stadium Sunday afternoon.

MARRIAGE SCORES 8TH VICTORY AT WASHINGTON PK.

Adds to Run of Triumphs Begun June 17.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

It's a question whether remarkable horses naturally find their way into Hirsch Jacobs' barn or whether they become remarkable because Jacobs makes them that way. Yesterday the red headed genius introduced one of his strangest products to Washington Park fans—a 5 year old horse which started his 1941 campaign as a $1,000 plater less than two months ago, and which has risen steadily without a defeat until he is now beating stake winners.

Yesterday Marriage scored his eighth consecutive victory since June 17. Among his victims was Sirocco, winner of last year's Classic stakes; Idle Sun, which led the way home in the Grassland handicap last month at Arlington, and other good performers.

Moves Up, Step by Step.

When Marriage made his first start of 1941, he was claimed for $1,000. His new owner moved him into the $1,400 class and Jacobs promptly snapped him up. Then step by step he was moved up until he was racing in the $5,000 class, and winning all the time.

Yesterday, he met the toughest field he had encountered since his remarkable rise began—but the fans decided he was up to the job, making him the 2 to 1 favorite while Sirocco was held at 5 to 2 and Idle Sun at 3 to 1 in the field of eight which went to the post in this mile allowance event over a sloppy track.

Jockey Arthur Craig sent Marriage into command during the run down the chute into the back stretch. He opened up a lead of three lengths with Waugh Pop, Idle Sun, and Sirocco following.

On the turn, Johnny Adams began moving with Sirocco. Waugh Pop went along while Idle Sun was tiring. In the stretch, Sirocco made a strong bid and for a time it seemed he might overhaul the pace setter. Marriage kept on running steadily, however, and came right on home to win by a length. Sirocco, in second place, was four lengths ahead of Waugh Pop.

The winner ran the mile in 1:37 in the sloppy going. His mutuel payoff was $6.20, $3.40, and $2.80 across the board.

Zig Zag Beats Five Rivals.

Butch Covington's fast 2 year old, Zig Zag beat five rivals in a five and a half furlong allowance race. In his last previous start, Zig Zag had taken second place between the Calumet farm's brilliant team—Sun Again and Some Chance—at Arlington.

The bettors fancied a colt from Detroit. Bright Willie, somewhat better than they did Zig Zag. Bright Willie, however, was beaten by three quarters of a length while T. D. Buhl's Tomjuta was taking third place.

WOMAN CATCHES 818 POUND TUNA; WORLD'S RECORD

Bailey Island, Me., Aug. 4 (AP).—A new world's tuna fishing record for women was credited today to Mrs. Maurice Meyer Jr. of Elberon, N. J., after she landed an 818 pounder that measured just a shade under 10 feet in length.

The previous record was held by Mrs. Lyman Bloomingdale of New York, who boated a 792 pound tuna off Wedgeport, N. S., on Sept. 1, 1940. Mrs. Meyer's huge "horse mackerel" also wiped out all records for Maine waters, the previous mark having been set by Frank Ludenmann of New York, with a 765 pounder.

BREWERS BEAT JIMMY WILSON'S VETERANS, 8 TO 6

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4 (AP).—Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs and Manager Ivy Griffin of the Madison Blues in the Three-Eye league hit homers inside the park for an old timers' aggregation tonight but the veterans' group lost a five inning exhibition to the Milwaukee Brewers of the American association, 8 to 6.

Urban (Red) Faber, former White Sox, retired the three Brewers to face him in the first. Some walks, a double by Barney Olsen and a homer by Billy Myers netted the Brewers four runs off Doug McWeeney, former Brooklyn pitcher, in the second.

Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, drove in a run in the veterans' six run last inning rally.

Gilbert Faints in Practice Session; Sent to Hospital

Just before yesterday's game between the Cubs and Cardinals in Wrigley field, Charley Gilbert, the Cubs' centerfielder, toppled over in a faint and was rushed to Illinois Masonic hospital for examination. Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, attributed the collapse to a case of nerves. Gilbert swooned just after seeing Frank Crespi, Cardinal second baseman, hit between the eyes by a batted ball during practice. Crespi was taken to the same hospital for treatment and later returned to his hotel. X-ray pictures indicated he may have suffered a broken nose. Gilbert was ordered to remain in the hospital for a rest.

BLAZINE TRADED TO GIANTS; CARDS GET GIL DUGGAN

The Chicago Cardinals yesterday traded Tony Blazine, veteran tackle, for Gilford Duggan of the New York Giants, the deal being contingent on both players agreeing to report to their new teams. Duggan also is a tackle. He played with the University of Oklahoma and joined the Giants in 1940.

Blazine was the first football player to bring fame to a small college by spectacular play in the College All-Star game. The big lineman from Illinois Wesleyan university was an unknown in the midst of .big name players when he joined the All-Star squad in 1934, when the annual contest was inaugurated. His performance was the talk of the game which ended in a scoreless tie between the collegians and the Bears.

Blazine has been with the Cardinals for six years.

MRS. MARS PAYS $3,200 FOR COLT AT SARATOGA

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—One of the largest crowds in recent years packed the George street auction paddock tonight for the start of the annual Saratoga yearling sales, but despite several bids of $3,000 or more the average for 50 young horses was only $1,327 per head. They brought a total of $66,350.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago and Maxwell Howard, the Dayton, O., sportsman, were high bidders for the night. Each went to $3,200 to get one horse.

Mrs. Mars paid that for a half brother to the handicap horse, General Manager—a black colt by Jock out of Agnes Ayres.

Report Barry to Be Named U. S. C. Coach

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 4 [Special].—Justin M. [Sam] Barry, varsity basketball and baseball coach at the University of Southern California, will be the late Howard H. Jones' successor as U. S. C.'s football coach, it was reliably learned today. All that remains to make his appointment official, these sources said, is the signature of Rufus R. Von Kleinsmid, university president, to the contract.

Barry was offered the post within a few days after Coach Jones' death last week end, it was learned, and he asked Willis O. Hunter, Trojan athletic director, for a top ranking line coach to fill out the staff before he accepted. Whether the line coach has been selected could not be learned.

All assistants who worked with Jones last year have been retained with the exception of Jeff Cravath, who resigned to accept the head coaching position at the University of San Francisco.

Barry, who will be 49 years old next December, had worked with Coach Jones for nearly 20 years. Barry, born in Wisconsin, was an outstanding player in football, basketball, and baseball at Lawrence college and at the University of Wisconsin.

Report Jacobs Ready to Pick Title Bout Site

Sheldon Clark, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, yesterday said Chicago's chances of getting a heavyweight championship bout between Champion Joe Louis and Lou Nova in September may be revealed by Promoter Mike Jacobs tomorrow.

Jacobs is negotiating for a site in this city, Detroit, and New York. Briggs stadium in Detroit is available Sept. 17 and 24, the two dates the eastern promoter prefers, with rent free, but Clark believes he has convinced him that Chicago will outdraw Detroit by $100,000.

If New York is named as the site the fight will be held in the Polo Grounds Sept. 17.

Chairman Clark revealed Wrigley field has been discarded as a possibility for the bout because it is too small. The park has about 32,000 permanent seats. Comiskey park, which drew a $700,000 gate with the Louis-James J. Braddock title encounter in 1937, remains as the most favorable spot, according to the commissioner.

Soldiers' field is available Sept. 24, a week after an amateur tournament between boxers from the Catholic Youth organization and Hawaii.

FIND CALDWELL INITIATION FEES TOPPED $150,000

AFL Chief Pledges Aid in Clerks' Union Cleanup.

Four developments yesterday marked the attempt of American Federation of Labor leaders and State's Attorney Courtney's office to straighten out the tangled affairs of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association [AFL]. The developments were:

1. Membership records of the union, studied by Assistant State's Attorney William B. Crawford, revealed that revenues from initiation fees alone topped $150,000 during the four year régime of Max Caldwell, suspended czar. Only $62 has been located in the union's bank account. The books disappeared when the investigation began.

New Local Charter Received.

2. Dan Carmell, attorney for the international in charge of reorganizing the Chicago local, received a new charter for the local, now No. 1530. Local 1248, however, will continue to exist for legal purposes incident to the members' fight for punishment of the alleged racketeer bosses.

3. William Green, AFL president, announced his organization's determination to "make sure the racketeers are out for good and that the union is run on an honest basis."

4. Crawford learned that an ex-convict brother of Caldwell, Herman Pollack [Caldwell's real name is Max Pollack], was paid as reporter and circulation manager for the local house organ.

Paul Sander, a promotion agent who says he got Caldwell to start the house organ, Over the Counter, in July, 1940, told Crawford that Pollack, despite his lack of knowledge of the newspaper business, was put on the paper's pay roll for $50 a week.

Twice Sentenced for Robbery.

Herman Pollack was sentenced in 1926 to serve 7½ to 15 years for a robbery in Detroit, Mich. Paroled after serving 21 months, he was arrested in Lake county, Indiana, in 1930 and sentenced to 20 years for robbery. In 1933 he was moved from the Indiana reformatory to a state prison because he had made plans to escape. He was paroled in 1938.

Sander said local 1248 poured $1,200 monthly into the paper until last June. Then it was taken over directly by Caldwell. The June issue was printed in a Miami, Fla., printing shop owned by Caldwell, Sander told Crawford.

Proof of the large sums handled by Caldwell was found yesterday in the union membership records sent to Crawford by C. C. Coulter, secretary-treasurer of the international. They showed that local 1248 had 60 members when Caldwell took over in July, 1937. The roster grew to 5,498 by last April.

Crawford said it is likely that initiation fees were paid by more than 10,000 clerks, since the membership turnover was rapid. During the four year period, the records showed, 4,287 members were suspended and 1,707 withdrew. Only 865 were reinstated. Caldwell accepted anything from $3 to $30 from new members, Crawford said, but the average initiation fee was $15, indicating total payments were more than $150,000.

Suit Over Funds Pending.

What happened to these and other funds totaling $910,000 which Caldwell and his aids allegedly collected is the question asked by rank and file union members in a civil suit now pending. The civil suit led to State's Attorney Courtney's investigation.

It is for the purpose of finding the missing assets and recovering mysteriously misplaced records that local 1248 will continue to exist legally, altho the membership will be transferred to the new local.

Coöperating in the cleanup are Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor; Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Chicago Women's Trade Union league, and Frank Fenton, AFL organizations director.

Of the AFL coöperation, William Green said yesterday, "We are coöperating in running these racketeers out of the labor movement. We will continue to press on the case until all books, records, and moneys have been recovered. We will make sure that the racketeers are out for good and the union is run on an honest basis."

Water Sale Collections Gain During 7 Months

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, yesterday reported that collections for the sale of water during the first seven months of the year amounted to $7,837,814, an increase of $272,556 as compared with the same period last year. Most of the increase was paid by users of metered water, who paid $202,894 more this year than last.

O. M. Karraker, member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, yesterday was elected president of the newly created board of the university retirement system in a meeting at 600 South Michigan avenue. H. E. Cunningham, secretary of the university board, and Lloyd Morey, university controler, were given the same positions on the new board.

The board was created under an act passed by the legislature and approved by Gov. Green. This act provides for retirement annuities, disability, and death benefits for the 3,500 members of staff, faculty, and employés of the University of Illinois, Illinois Normal university and Teachers college, and state scientific surveys.

Persons falling under the act will pay approximately 3½ per cent of their salaries into the fund and, with state contributions added, will be retired at the age of 68. Newly chosen members of the executive committee of the new board are Karraker; Chester R. Davis, a member of the board of trustees, and Russell Guin of the Illinois Teachers college board.

JUDGE TO DECIDE ABANDONED BOY CASE ON MONDAY

Judge Frank Bicek of the Juvenile Court, who is on a fishing trip in northern Wisconsin, said yesterday he will return next Monday and decide what shall be done about Tommy Argo, the 3 year old son of Detroit, Mich., parents who was abandoned here three weeks ago. The boy was identified on Saturday by his mother, Mrs. Lillian Argo, a tavern waitress, who charges her husband deliberately left the child at the Brookfield zoo.

The husband and father, Walter Argo, alias Fagielo and alias David Walters, is a truck driver, she said, and he took the child away from a Detroit home where for two years he had paid $6 a week for Tommy's board and clothing. Argo has not been interviewed by Michigan or Chicago authorities.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said he is awaiting officials' reports before he decides whether Argo may be indicted here for child abandonment or contributing to the dependency of a minor. If so, he said, the extradition of the father will be asked.

Lieut. Anthony De Grazio of the Sheffield avenue police was driving home Saturday when a car brushed his machine in Chicago avenue near Ashland avenue. Lieut. De Grazio said that he called out to Sadowski to be careful. Sadowski, the lieutenant told Judge Francis Borrelli in Safety court, replied, "So what?" Lieut. De Grazio said that Sadowski then forced his car to the curb and kicked him when the lieutenant stepped out. The lieutenant arrested him.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 553 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 390 were killed in Chicago, where 14,445 were injured in the same period.

GREEN ATTACKS OPM'S SUDDEN SILK SHUTDOWN

Cites Dangers in Idle Men and Factories.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday urged that government authorities plan for conversion of plants to other purposes before issuing any more such sweeping orders as those which last week closed down all raw silk processing operations in the nation.

Green cited the danger of throwing large groups of men out of work and leaving plant space idle. He said the silk processing order was an illustration of what might happen in other industries employing large numbers of men if the Office of Production Management does not exercise discretion in the application of priorities.

Cites Duty of OPM.

"The OPM is in duty bound to investigate what effects are likely when priorities are issued," he said. "In the case of the silk processing industry, it would have been wiser had the OPM first determined whether the plant facilities could have been continued in use, fabricating some substitute for silk.

"If no substitute was found available, the OPM should have attempted to convert the factories to national defense purposes by subleasing defense contracts to these plants. This would have enabled the same number of workers to remain at work in their home communities."

Green, addressing the opening session of the AFL executive council's two week meeting in the Drake hotel, said the silk processing order had come as a distinct surprise to the AFL, because the OPM recently had appointed a committee to consult with the AFL in investigating the possible effects of priorities orders in advance of their issuance.

Fears 100,000 Idle.

"It was the purpose of this group to cushion economic dislocations which might result," he said. "The shutdown in silk processing, which may put between 50,000 and 100,000 men out of work and which might have the effect of shutting down entire communities, was ordered without consultation between OPM and AFL representatives."

Green said that similar priorities should not be applied recklessly in other industries, notably those fabricating aluminum and magnesium, or manufacturing kitchen utensils, where there are already indications that OPM action is imminent. He said that indiscriminate application of priorities would aggravate the migratory labor problem.

Green also read a statement to the council declaring that Edwin S. Smith, whose term is to expire Aug. 27, is unfit to remain a member of the national labor relations board. Green asserted that Smith had "become a crusader for the CIO" and that his influence had been "largely responsible for the bias, unfairness, and prejudice which until recently characterized many of the board's decisions."

Attending the meeting with Green was George Meany of New York, secretary and treasurer of the AFL.

SPLIT ON ISSUE OF COMMUNISM THREATENS CIO

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—A dozen resolutions demanding that communist, Fascist, and Nazi sympathizers be barred from the CIO United Automobile Workers threatened tonight to split the union's sixth annual convention.

The proposals were only a few of 239 resolutions submitted but which must go thru committees before coming to a vote by the 1,000 delegates.

Opposing the anti-communist demands, several resolutions asserted "every CIO leader at some time" has been labeled "a communist by reactionaries" and that a "purge" must be avoided. The opposition proposals added there should be no discrimination against union members because of political beliefs.

Scores of other controversial resolutions were before the committees. One condemned "work or fight edicts" by selective service boards. Others warned against using troops or state police as strike breakers. Another said "the friends of Hitlerism" must be "cleaned out of the draft boards and the army."

MAJ. L. W. WARFEL NAMED COUNTY DRAFT ADVISER

Maj. Lloyd W. Warfel, formerly a Chicago manufacturing executive, yesterday was appointed selective service occupational adviser for Cook county. As such, he will advise workers and employers of the workers' rights to ask for occupational deferment from the draft. Maj. Warfel has had similar duties in North Dakota. He replaces Maj. Howard G. Wade of Hinsdale, who has been transferred to New York City.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

G. O. P. INDORSES DEWEY AID FOR N. Y. PROSECUTOR

New York, Aug 4 (AP).—Already designated by Tammany hall as nominee for district attorney, Frank S. Hogan tonight won the support of the New York County Republican committee and thereby has both major parties on his side.

Selection of Hogan, an independent Democrat and administrative assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who is not running again, was brought about largely by the same group of fusion leaders that swept Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia into the city hall in 1933.

Hogan, 39 years old, helped Dewey send Tammany Leader James J. Hines to Sing Sing prison for policy racketeering.

Hogan, who has announced his intention to retain Dewey's staff, if elected, and to keep the district attorney's office out of politics, told newsmen he would not "take sides in the mayoralty at all." The Republicans have endorsed LaGuardia for a third term.

BEACH CURFEW TEST WRINKLES LEGAL BROWS

A moot legal point, which has come to concern panting Chicagoans during the record warm weather, will be given careful judicial scrutiny this morning in East Chicago avenue court.

This point deals with the Chicago park district regulation which forbids swimming after 10 p. m. at patroled beaches. It was cast into the legal arena by the arrest Sunday night of Hugh K. Hooks Jr., 33 years old, 66 East Division street, a salesman, who holds the regulation unconstitutional.

Hooks refused to come out of the water at Oak street beach at 10 p. m. and lifeguards summoned Sergt. Maurice Begner and Policeman William Gruber of park police. Hooks then emerged long enough to deliver a dissenting opinion which held that he is a citizen and a taxpayer, that Lake Michigan is federal water, and it is his constitutional right to swim after 10 p. m. if he has the urge. The police ordered the lifeguards to fetch Hooks from the water, and he was taken to the police staiton and charged with disorderly conduct. The issue will be thrashed out in court today.

Further inquiry into the case was postponed until it could be determined whether Blackmon would recover. He was in Camp Bowie hospital, with two bullet wounds in his left breast. His condition remained critical.

120% CEILING HOPES LIFT WHEAT; COTTON LOANS BOOSTED 5 CENTS

Bread Grain Spurts 4¼ Cents to Equal Parity Price.

Bread buying based partly on the possibility that congress may set proposed ceilings on major grain crops as high as 120 per cent of parity, or 10 per cent more than indicated on Saturday carried all deliveries of wheat, oats, and rye and May corn and soy beans to new seasonal high prices yesterday.

Wheat reached a peak since 1937. Its maximum rise of 4¼ cents carried the May contract to $1.17¾, equal to the July 15 farm parity price, and 2¾ cents above the government's Chicago loan price. September corn sold at 77⅝ cents at the high time, ⅝ cent above the price asked by the Commodity Credit corporation for its Chicago cash corn holdings.

Closing Gains Reduced.

Wheat closed with gains of 3 to 3½ cents. Corn was ½ to ¾ cent higher, the bulge being restricted by the government ceiling on cash corn, set to avoid a runaway market and prevent the hog-corn price ratio from narrowing.

Oats advanced ⅝ to 2 cents, rye 1⅛ to 2 cents, and soy beans 1 to 1⅛ cents. Lard closed at gains of 10 to 12½ cents a hundred pounds.

If congress places ceilings on major farm commodities at 120 per cent of parity, brokers figured the Chicago level for wheat would be $1.55 and for corn $1.12, based on the July 15 farm parity price. Parity prices are designed to give farmers the equivalent of their 1909-'14 purchasing power.

Speculative Trade Large.

Speculative interest in the grain and soy bean markets was estimated to have been the largest since May 14 when sales of futures aggregated 48,667,000 bushels. Some brokers said that figure may have been exceeded yesterday.

Speculators and mills bought wheat futures heavily in the face of sales of No. 2 red and hard winter in the spot market at 3½ cents a bushel under September, termed the widest discount in years.

A new heat wave in the west with little or no rain forecast caused apprehension in the grain trade and it was feared that estimates on the crop would have to be revised downward. Chicago statisticians last week placed the prospective crop at 2,602,000,000 bushels, the largest with one exception since 1928.

RECESS SURPLUS MEETING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Officials of five leading wheat producing nations announced progress today in solving the international wheat problem, including establishment of an ever-normal granary. In session here since July 10, representatives of Argentina, Australia, Canada, Great Britain, and the United States recessed until Aug. 18.

The state department said that postwar relief to war devastated counties occupied a prominent place in the discussions.

Wheat stock available for export at the end of July, it was said, amounted to about two years' normal needs of imported wheat, thus requiring production control to prevent stocks from rising above present record levels.

Prices of Staple Dip on Early Fears of Lower Rate.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The minimum return which the government assures cotton growers thru its loan program was boosted 5 cents a pound today in conformity with recent legislation calling for loans at 85 per cent of the parity price.

[Parity is a level at which a farmer would have the same buying power in terms of other commodities that he had in the five years before the World war.]

On the basis of a parity price of 16.49 cents a pound on Aug. 1, the department of agriculture announced that the average loan rate on 7/8 inch middling cotton of the 1941 crop would be 14.02 cents, compared with 8.90 cents last year.

Announcement of the loan rate lacked the significance of similar announcements in the past because cotton is selling on the market at a level above the loan rate for the first time since the program was started in 1934.

Prevent Distress Sales.

The loans, available at the full rate to farmers who adhere to acreage allotment quotas, are designed to permit growers to store their crops instead of having to sell on a low market. Growers exceeding their quotas may obtain loans on their excess production at 60 per cent of the full rate. With the market up as a result of various speculative factors, probably few growers will apply for the loans under present conditions.

Meanwhile Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. advocated that the government dispose of some of the cotton it holds under previous loans at present market levels.

"If we don't sell this cotton now when the market will take it, we are going to be sorry some day," he told a press conference.

Morgenthau, who was governor of the Federal Farm board in 1933, assailed as "wicked" a measure recently passed by the senate which would prohibit the government from disposing of its loan stocks of cotton and wheat for the duration of the European war. The measure was designed to support prices.

Vary on Type and Location.

The agriculture department said the cotton loan rates would range from 10.67 cents a pound on low middling tinged to 22.79 cents on long staple cotton. The average loan rate for 15/16 inch middling cotton, which is the basic description for all future and spot contracts, would be 14.82 cents.

The latter rate, however, will vary because of location, the department said, from a high of 15.29 cents in the Carolina mill area to 14.40 cents in New Mexico and 14.85 cents at gulf and Pacific ports.

MARKETS ERRATIC

Commodity futures moved erratically yesterday in markets beset with conflicting rumors regarding pending price control legislation. Cotton, which had risen steeply recently, canceled early gains ranging to $1 a bale and closed 35 to 65 cents below Saturday's final prices. The late selling was attributed to reports, later proved erroneous, that the new federal loan rate would be below current market prices.

Reject Margin Request.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—A New York Cotton Exchange committee today in effect rejected a suggestion of the federal Commodity Exchange administration that speculative margins be set at 15 per cent of the purchase price of the product traded.

"Such margins would work a great hardship on the producers of cotton by denying them a full and free market," the committee reported.

'NO FOREIGN WARS'

In an address on Sept. 11, 1940, President Roosevelt said:

"I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time. I stand with my party, upon the platform adopted in Chicago:

"'We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, naval, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack.'"

AFL STRIKERS GO BACK TO WORK AT MUNITION PLANTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Construction work was resumed yesterday at northern Ohio's two big army ordnance plants—Plum Brook and Revenna—as 3,200 AFL craftsmen returned to work, but a wage dispute still kept 600 AFL carpenters off the job at Plum Brook.

The carpenters walked out at the plant near Sandusky Saturday in an effort to enforce demands for a 25 cent hourly increase in their $1.12½ wage.

The unionists at four midwest ordnance plants were ordered back to work by their officials after Saturday and Sunday "holidays" which a union chief described as occasioned by misunderstandings. The other munition plants involved were in St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo. Members of some locals failed to report for work after the war department notified them their overtime pay henceforth would be time and a half instead of double, in conformity with a July 22 agreement.

Steel Making Rate Drops 1.3 Points for This Week

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Steel ingot production this week was estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute today at 98.3 per cent of capacity, a drop of 1.3 points from last week's average.

Scrap Market Inquiry Asked by Henderson

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today a department of justice investigation of alleged monopolistic, price boosting practices in the scrap iron and steel trade which he said threatened curtailment of steel production.

The inquiry, which will be conducted by two of the department's units—the federal bureau of investigation and the anti-trust division—was requested by Henderson's Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply.

Suggests Special Grand Jury.

Henderson urged that, if necessary, a special grand jury be impaneled to eliminate the abuses and prevent "hoarding" of scrap. He told the acting attorney general that about 15 large brokers of iron and steel scrap supplied about 90 per cent of the metal purchased by steel mills, after purchasing the scrap metal from subdealers.

"It is my understanding that certain of these brokers and dealers have subsidized secretly other dealers and sub-dealers, sometimes as many as 100 or more," Henderson charged. "In this way a single broker has, in some instances, achieved a monopoly over all of the scrap produced in an entire region. This control over the supply of scrap has been utilized as a means for enhancing scrap prices."

Permits Control of Supply.

Secretly maintained subsidies have permitted some brokers and dealers not only to maintain control over prices, but also over supply, Henderson said.

"These controls have had the effect of encouraging the hoarding of iron and steel scrap by creating the impression that prices will be increased," he added. "This has lessened the amount of scrap available for steel mills and threatens to curtail the production of steel at a time when needs of the defense program make it imperative that output be maintained at the highest possible level."

Henderson's request to the acting attorney general was dispatched July 31. It was understood that FBI agents had already begun their investigation in several unnamed cities.

APPAREL MAKERS LIMIT BOOST IN ORDERS TO 12 PCT.

Large manufacturers generally are limiting retail stores' increases in apparel orders to 12 per cent over those placed last year, it was reported yesterday as the Chicago apparel market entered its second and final week.

The merchandise is being displayed by Chicago and out of town manufacturers and wholesalers at the Merchandise Mart, downtown hotels and wholesale houses.

The manufacturers are seeking to avoid repitition of 1919 and 1937 seasons, when many stores overstocked and had to return merchandise to manufacturers, Merchandise Mart officials reported.

Tonight the merchants and buyers will be guests of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the semi-annual Interstate Merchants Council dinner.

7 MONTHS' AUTO SALES SET NEW HIGH IN COUNTY

July Volume Slips to 13,778 Cars.

Automobile sales in Cook county for the first seven months of this year reached an all time record total for the period of 111,644, it was disclosed yesterday in a compilation based on statistics furnished by the Bureau of Motor Advice. July sales of 13,778 were the largest for that month since 1929, when 14,964 cars were sold, peak for that year and the largest for any month until March, 1941.

The Bureau of Motor Advice is a semiofficial agency which tabulates registrations of new cars with the office of the secretary of state at Springfield.

Near Total for All of 1929.

Sales in the first seven months of 1940 were 82,736 and in the 1939 period, 62,533. July sales last year were 11,338. Volume last month declined from the 16,807 in June.

The number of automobiles sold in the county since the first of this year was within 269 cars of the total for the entire year of 1929. Dealers consider 100,000 cars a good year's business.

In the 19 year record maintained by the planning department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE sales have passed the 100,000 mark for a full year in only four other years.

Comparison of Sales.

TIRE SALES CLIMB.

Anticipation of a possible future shortage of tires, caused replacement sales of casings to consumers during the second quarter of 1941 to climb to 13,078,000, a record for recent years, and 20 per cent above the 10,900,000 figure for the second quarter of 1940, the department of commerce reported yesterday. These sales, however, would equip less than 2 per cent of vehicles now in operation.

Paperboard Base Paper Prices Raised $2.50 a Ton

Base prices of paperboard will be increased $2.50 a ton east of the Rocky mountains under an agreement reached between major producers and the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, it was announced yesterday.

Junket to End Wheat Penalty Protests Fails, Say Opponents

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 4 [Special].—Terming a failure the excursion of western wheat growers and others into Indiana last week-end to stifle opposition in this state to imposition of the 49 cent a bushel penalty on excess wheat crops, officers of the Indiana Marketing Quota Protest association today pointed to several features which they asserted aroused their curiosity.

"Who put up the $25,000 or more that was expended on this junket?" asked Lamount O'Harra of Mt. Summit, president of the protesting Indiana wheat growers.

"We have all heard of old man Cincinnatus of ancient days leaving his plow standing in the furrow to rush to the rescue of Rome, but who ever heard before of a North Dakota farmer leaving his fields in the midst of the wheat harvest to take a jaunt into Indiana and Ohio to try to rescue the triple-A wheat program?"

Charge Pay Rollers Active.

Charges that agents on the federal government pay roll in this state were active in arrangements for the westerners to tour numerous central Indiana counties were made by some Indiana farmers.

It was reported from headquarters of the protesting group that a number of the visitors, when questioned, admitted they were connected with the Agricultural Adjustment administration in paid capacities in their home states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, or Kansas.

Members of the protest group asserted that a visiting party came within two miles of the home of Haven S. Davis of Tippecanoe county, vice president of the Indiana group fighting the wheat penalty, but declined to go to see him, altho told by a neighbor he was then at home.

O'Harra said that altho the admitted paid agents of the AAA appeared to be a numerous segment of the party, and altho there were a few large wheat growers in evidence, there were also farmers who had such small wheat acreage that they were not even entitled to vote at the quota election.

Doubts They Paid Way.

"These men professed to be paying their own way," said O'Harra, "but what would induce a man growing as little as five acres of wheat to spend $50 or more out of his own pocket to come here on such a jaunt? Three of the men between them held only 23 acres of wheat."

George M. Musgrave, Martinsville, today was elected president of the newly incorporated Farmers-Americans Guide, formed to fight penalties imposed by AAA and to combat regimentation of the farmer.

A 'Political Wedge'

Pawnee City, Neb., Aug. 4 (AP).—Kenneth S. Wherry, Nebraska Republican chairman, charged today a trek of plains state farmers to Ohio and Indiana last week was the opening wedge in a drive for political control of agriculture.

Delegations from Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, and the Dakotas interviewed farmers of the eastern states in an effort, their leaders said, to "sell" the advantages of the 49 cent penalty on over-quota wheat which had drawn protests from some growers.

Wherry asserted the trip was sponsored by the committee on agriculture which, he said, "was started by New Dealers in Washington." The committee, he charged, "is one of the movements seeking control" of agriculture by displacing farm organizations which "at times have questioned some New Deal ideas."

PACKARD, CRANE AND COCA-COLA EARNINGS RISE

Profits of Others Cut by Taxes.

The Coca-Cola company, Crane company, and Packard Motor Car company were among numerous corporations reporting improved earnings for recent periods yesterday.

Edward L. Shea reports record power output.

Others, including Continental Can company reported smaller profits with increasing federal taxes a major factor in the declines.

Coca-Cola profits were up slightly, despite a much heavier tax load. The company earned $9,612,727, or $2.29 a common share in the second quarter, compared with $9,034,503, or $2.15 a share, in the June quarter of 1940.

Reserves for taxes provided by the Coca-Cola company for the June quarter totaled $7,063,000, more than twice the $3,178,000 in the second quarter last year.

Half Year Profit Larger.

The company's operations in the quarter just ended and in the year to date were the most extensive in the organization's history, officials said. Net income for the first half was $16,007,170, or $3.77 a share, compared with $15,030,170, or $3.54 a share, in the first half of 1940.

Net earnings of Crane company, Chicago manufacturer of plumbing supplies and other items, totaled $6,907,457 for the 12 months ended June 30. The profit, equal to $2.53 a common share, was after federal income taxes based on the present law and provision of $1,000,000 for possible additional income and excess profits taxes. It compared with net income of $5,020,284, or $1.73 a share, in the

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Eastern Air Lines, in a statement for the six months ended June 30, today showed net profit of $768,662, or $1.34 a share on common stock, compared with $733,925, or $1.28 a share for the first half of last year.

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager, said the earnings set a new record despite the fact provision for federal income taxes was $117,000 larger than in the first six months of last year.

OVERALL STOCK ADVANCE FAILS FOR SIXTH DAY

Average Is Steady Despite Rise in Aircrafts.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—For the sixth straight session the stock market was unable to register an advance on average today. Altho aircrafts worked up belated fractional improvement, and motors and oils did fairly well thruout, steels displayed further slipping inclinations and most recently buoyant rails took a rest.

The Associated Press composite of 60 stocks closed unchanged at 44. The barometer had not been up since last Monday.

Dealings were lively at intervals but slow periods were plentiful. Transfers amounted to 633,190 shares, against 678,990 in the preceding five hour session on Friday.

News Restrains Buyers.

Increasing far eastern worries, with Japan halting steamship sailings to the United States, helped restrain buyers, brokers said. The Russian-German war news seemingly was unimpressive marketwise. There was plenty of business optimism altho tax doubts remained a chilling factor.

Steels had to contend with an estimated drop in this week's mill operations attributed mainly to growing shortages of scrap. Mounting military plane backlogs aided the aviations. Oils did better as the sales curfew yesterday resulted in even larger gasoline sales in the blacked out eastern seaboard states than is usual on Sunday.

Full priorities for all copper, decreed by the Office of Production Management and effective Wednesday, kept most metal stocks in a restricted area. American Smelting conceded a point and Anaconda and Kennecott were up a shade.

CHICAGO PRICES UNEVEN

Prices were slightly higher in slow trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Transfers totaled 16,000 shares, with 39 issues advancing, 29 declining and 24 closing unchanged.

South Bend Lathe reached a new 1941 high of 37, up 1. Volume leaders included Illinois Central, 800 shares, 10, unchanged; Libby, McNeill & Libby, 800, 5¾, up ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, 700, 26½, up ⅛.

Of the dually traded stocks dealt in from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, Swift closed ⅜ higher than at New York, Consolidated Oil, ⅛ higher, and Crane and Walgreen, ⅛ lower.

14 UNIONS AWAIT RAILS' ANSWER TO PAY DEMAND

Stand on 30 Cents Boost and 70c Minimum.

The railroads and 14 nonoperating unions finished their conference table discussions yesterday in the Morrison hotel on the unions' demand for pay increases for their 800,000 members. The roads announced they will give their answer tomorrow.

Representatives of the railroad managements have been meeting on alternate days with the nonoperating unions and with the five operating brotherhoods since July 24.

Stand on Original Demand.

After yesterday's session, B. M. Jewell, spokesman for the 14 unions and president of the railway employés division of the American Federation of Labor, said the unions were standing on their original demand for pay increases of 30 cents an hour, with a minimum hourly wage of 70 cents.

Fred G. Gurley, chairman of the managements' negotiating committee, said: "We discussed the employés' demand for increased pay, and asked questions to clarify certain points. We feel that the management now has a clearer view of the demands."

Says Rail Wages Lag.

Jewell, in a statement issued at a press conference, asserted that railroad wages have lagged behind wages in other industries, and cited figures from a report by the National Industrial Conference board, a private research organization.

According to the study referred to by Jewell, average hourly wages of railroad workers rose 13.9 per cent from 1929 to 1941, while the average for all manufacturing industries was increasing 35.4 per cent.

Today the railroads' negotiators are scheduled to hold another meeting with the five operating brotherhoods, which are seeking a 30 per cent wage increase.

PORK AND LARD REMOVED FROM U. S. STAMP LIST

Because of spectacular price gains since early in the spring pork and lard will not be distributed by the department of agriculture under the blue food stamp plan until further notice. The department announced yesterday that these foods will not be returned to the "surplus" list until warranted by the supply situation.

Government buying for Britain under the so-called lend-lease plan has cut into supplies of these products and pushed prices upward.

Market advances of 10 to 15 cents carried yesterday's hog average to $10.75 a hundred pounds.

Small receipts of cattle forced buyers to raise their bids 15 to 25 cents for most steers and yearlings. Heifers sold strong to 25 cents higher.

Fat lambs sold strong to 15 cents higher, with top loads at $11.40.

SHOE OUTPUT DIPS.

June production of boots, shoes, and slippers, other than rubber, totaled 39,736,391 pairs, compared with 41,173,015 pairs in May, and 28,121,118 pairs in June last year, according to the census bureau.

BUTTER REACHES TOP PRICES FOR AUGUST IN 11 YEARS IN CHICAGO

Butter futures soared 0.80 to 0.90 cent a pound to their highest August levels since 1930 on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. November butter closed with the larger gain at 36.25 cents. Higher prospective price ceilings for farm commodities than expected, curtailment of production by abnormal temperatures and advances of ¼ to ½ cent a pound in prices in the local cash market supported the rise, traders said. Expected diversion of milk to the production of cheese and evaporated milk also was a factor traders said, because it would tend to lessen butter receipts.

Egg futures gained 0.30 to 0.45 cent a dozen on the strength of additional government purchases at slightly higher prices. Failure of the cash market prices to advance brought on some liquidation which cut earlier futures gains. October eggs, with the largest rise, closed at 29.05 cents a dozen.

CHICAGO POWER CONCENTRATIONS NATION'S BIGGEST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 [Special],—The Chicago industrial area leads all others in the United States in power concentrations, with prime movers totaling 1,418,316 horse power and installed electric motors driven by purchased energy rated at 1,763,629 horse power, the department of commerce reported today.

The Pittsburgh area, with a prime mover installation of 1,377,627 horse power and 1,354,356 horse power in electric motors driven by purchased energy, was ranked second.

The Detroit area, with 989,381 and 1,598,299 horse power so classified, ranked third and the New York-Newark-Jersey City industrial area, with 718,858 and 1,620,099 horse power, ranked fourth.

MILITARY BARBED WIRE.

I have seen news reports stating large sums of money have been made available to the Okonite company by the Defense Plant corporation. Is it building armament materials? Is any of its stock held by the public?—L. N.

Answer: Government contracts for wire amounting to more than $1,500,000 have been awarded the Okonite company, Passaic, N. J. The company announced early in June that it had entered into an agreement with the Defense Plant corporation to buy machinery and equipment estimated to cost $293,884 to be used in its plant at Paterson, N. J., to produce military barbed wire.

The company was incorporated in New Jersey in 1908 as the successor to a company founded in 1878. It acquired the insulated wire works of the Hazard Manufacturing company, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in 1927. There are 9,544 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par and 12,000 shares of $100 par common stock outstanding.

Net income, earnings per common share and dividends paid on the common stock in the last five years follow:

	Net income.	Earn. per com. share.	Common dividends.
1936	$456,653	$32.69	$1.50
1937	538,527	39.96	8.00
1938	*205,483	*21.98	4.50
1939	*36,588	*7.88	1.50
1940	$19,063	$0.15	5.00

*Net loss.

Dividends so far this year total $5 on the common. The company reported current assets of $4,165,700 and current liabilities of $2,062,283 at the end of 1940. Total assets exceeded $6,500,000.

MORE SHOES—LESS LEATHER.

I hold stock in one of the larger shoe manufacturing companies. I would like to know the current outlook for this industry. What effect will government orders for army shoes have on the industry and production?—C. L. B.

Shoe production in 1941 is expected to set a new record. It is estimated output will reach 445 million pairs. This compares with 404 million pairs produced last year and the previous record of 424 million pairs in 1939.

Unless this country becomes involved in war, government orders for shoes are not expected to be an important factor this year. The shoe trade estimates government purchases at between 8 and 10 million pairs.

Making shoes is one of the oldest industries in the United States. Altho it has always been the principal outlet for leather, it is interesting to note that despite the growth in the production of shoes, the consumption of leather is gradually diminishing. Only 87 per cent as much leather was used in producing 424 million pairs of shoes in 1939 as was used in making 351 million pairs in 1923.

PURE OIL RIVER TOWBOAT READY FOR ITS FIRST RUN

Diesel Powered Ship Shown Guests.

Pure Oil Steamship company's new 1,200 horsepower towboat Anker L. Christy, which on Thursday will start pushing 1,344,000 gallon loads of gasoline in barges to various destinations on the Mississippi, Ohio, and Tennessee rivers, was exhibited to guests of the company in Chicago yesterday.

The 108 foot blue and white Diesel powered vessel had tied up at the Michigan avenue bridge after a week-end preservice run from the Sturgeon Bay, Wis., yards of its builder, Sturgeon Bay Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company.

Cruises with Guests.

With a party aboard as guests of Anker L. Christy, Pure Oil Steamship vice president after whom it was named, the boat made a short trip into the lake with Capt. George L. Vinson, veteran riverman of New Orleans, at the new type controls.

The boat does not have the traditional wheel, steering being done electrically by means of levers. All engine and rudder movements likewise are controled from the pilot house. The pilot house can be dropped 5½ feet from its normal position, permitting the vessel to pass beneath most inland waterway bridges without the bridges being raised.

The Anker L. Christy has a width of 30 feet. It and the two barges which it will push will have a total overall length of 590 feet. Three 400 horsepower Diesel motors provide the power to drive three propellers.

Fans and Showers for Crew.

The crew totals 12 men, whose gleaming quarters have such conveniences as electric fans and showers. In a small library are books donated by Henry M. Dawes, president of Pure Oil company, Chicago, of which the steamship company is a subsidiary.

The new craft is scheduled to leave St. Louis Thursday morning with its first load, bound for Minneapolis. It is expected to push its huge barges 125 to 150 miles in 24 hours, or an average of 5 to 6 miles an hour.

FAVORS FLORIDA EAST COAST RAIL CAPITAL SLASH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—An Interstate Commerce commission examiner recommended today a reorganization plan for the Florida East Coast Railway company calling for a reduction in capitalization from $95,616,000 to $37,000,000. He said his recommendation was similar with a few exceptions to the plan proposed by the deposit committee for the first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds.

Present fixed interst charges would be reduced from $2,823,480 to $483,480. Present stockholders and unsecured creditors would not participate in the reorganized road.

Business done by check in 41 large clearing house cities of the 7th federal reserve district during the week ended July 30 totaled $1,511,207,000, a decline of 4 per cent from the preceding week, but an increase of 33.3 per cent over a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Chicago check volume was $784,381,000, compared with $605,405,000 last year. District withdrawals during the the 13 weeks ended July 30 amounted to $19,921,576,000, a gain of 27.8 per cent over the corresponding 1940 period.

HOUSE ADOPTS TAX BILL; KILLS JOINT RETURNS

Action Lops 300 Millions from Estimated Revenue.

amendment to kill the joint returns provision provoked a noisy debate which at times reached tumultuous proportions, forcing the chair to halt proceedings frequently to restore order.

The amendment was introduced by Representative Frank Buck [D., Cal.]. Knutson warned his G. O. P. colleagues that its passage would, in view of the President's action Saturday, place them in the category of Roosevelt rubber stamps.

Chairman Doughton, making the final plea for defeat of the amendment, said its passage would leave congress with one recourse—an increase of income taxes in the lower income brackets.

Fight Led By Women.

The fight against the joint return section was led by three women members of congress, Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers [R., Mass.], Frances P. Bolton [R., O.], and Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.]. All charged that women's rights were being abridged and that married members of their sex were being unfairly penalized—that they would have to pay heavier taxes than those who remained single.

Many of their male colleagues took the floor to support their arguments, terming the section unconstitutional; or declaring that if passed, some arrangement should be made for lowering the exemptions of single persons or raising the exemptions for married couples.

The argument on constitutionality arose from the fact that several states, known as "community property states," permit husband and wife to divide property and income for tax purposes. Passage of the mandatory joint return section, they held, would be an invasion of the rights of these states.

Called Equalizer of Levies.

Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.], however, contended that the section would equalize the tax burden and close one of the most notable loopholes in the income tax law by preventing transfer of assets between husband and wife to escape higher taxes. As far as the section being a penalty on marriage, he continued, people to whom matrimony is a "dollars and cents proposition" ought not to get married.

New revenue in the multimillion dollar bill would be raised approximately as follows:

Individual income taxes, 852 millions; corporation taxes, 1,323 millions; excise taxes, 902 millions; estate and gift taxes, 152 millions.

Hits Small Salary Earners.

The bill deals a heavy financial blow to the wage earner thru the imposition of surtaxes on every dollar of taxable income. Surtaxes hitherto have been reserved for relatively high income groups.

The new surtax rates, however, begin at 5 per cent on the first taxable income up to $2,000, and rise to a peak of 75 per cent on incomes of 5 millions or more.

The present normal tax rate of 4 per cent—plus 10 per cent of the total tax for "defense"—a total of 4.4 per cent—remains unchanged.

Persons in the high income brackets will pay from 15 to 75 per cent more than they paid last year, while persons in the moderate income groups, $1,000 to $5,000, will be assessed roughly three times as much on this year's income.

Surtaxes on corporations have been increased heavily and excess profits rates were boosted 10 percentage points to a range of from 35 per cent to 60 per cent. Business firms will be required in the future to compute their excess profits tax liability before they pay their normal taxes, instead of deducting the normal taxes beforehand, as they now may.

Boost Estate and Gift Taxes.

Estate taxes also have been increased, 1 per cent on amounts of $5,000 or less, and up to 7 per cent on amounts of 2 millions to 4 millions. The new range of these taxes is from 3 to 70 per cent. Gift taxes have been bdosted in proportion.

In its search for further revenue to support the administration's vast spending program, the house saw fit to impose a variety of new levies so extended that the United States citizen of the future appears destined to be paying a tax in every waking hour.

Among these levies is a $5 a year operating charge which must be paid by every one owning an automobile, yacht or airplane. Levies also are imposed on sporting goods, automobile accessories, club dues, soft drinks, mechanical refrigerators, business machines, jewelry, furs, toilet preparations, bowling alleys, pool and billiard parlors, radios, phonograph equipment and phonograph records, to mention only a few.

Three Amendments Voted.

Three amendments were inserted by the ways and means committee before the debate began on the joint return section. These provided for a two cents per thousand tax on floor stocks of matches held by retailers, equal to the excise tax on manufacturers which begins as soon as the measure becomes law; an adjustment of the tax rates on billboards already set up in the bill, and a clarification of the language of the section providing for a 5 per cent tax on all local telephone bills.

The latter amendment specifically makes newspapers and radio stations subject to this tax. The levy, it was explained, does not remove existing exemptions from leased wires used by newspapers and broadcasting stations in the gathering of news. Nor does it affect the existing tax on long distance telephone calls, which was not changed.

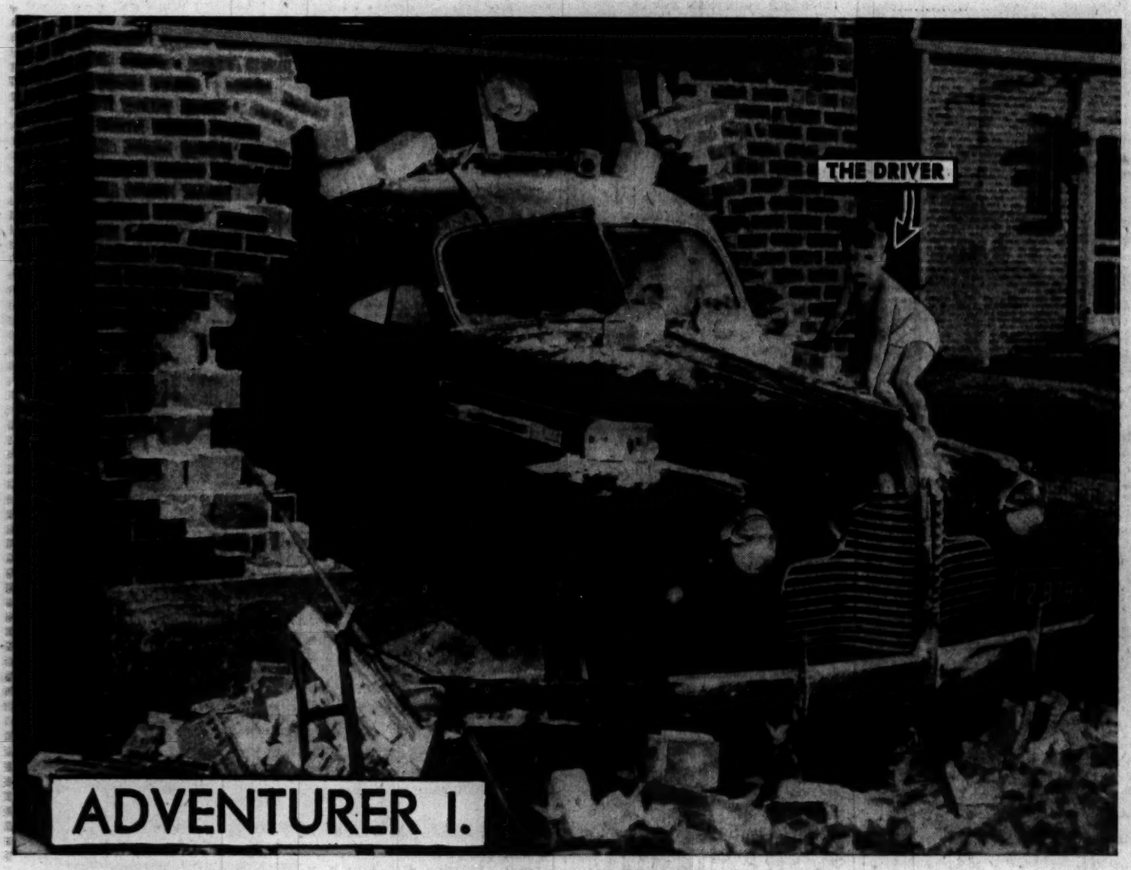
Two Small Boys Find Adventure—Woman Catches World Record Tuna—Karelian Farmers Repatriated



Two small boys found adventure yesterday. In Adventure 1, Kenny Keenan, 2½, climbed into the family car in its driveway at Pueblo, Colo., and pressed the starter. The car plunged into the garage and thru the rear wall. "It's a bad car," said Kenny as he posed for picture. In Adventure 2, Timothy Moore, 1, of Kansas City, Mo., dropped a marble down the furnace air shaft and went down after it. He yelled when he got stuck, and firemen tore down pipe to rescue him.
